Saturn 5 Contract Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' watchdog investigating agency says the builder of the Apollo Saturn 5 rocket booster increased potential earnings at least $695,000 by overstating costs $2.7 million.

It says the overstatement by the Boeing Co. was found in a check of a third of the materials cost for the first-stage boosters that blast astronaut's off Cape Kennedy.

The findings of General Accounting Office investigators on part of the $1 billion contract for 15 Saturn boosters were in a report released Tuesday.

It said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has accepted a recommendation to evaluate other Boeing material cost estimates for the Saturn 5 and "obtain appropriate price adjustments from the contractor."

The report quoted Boeing as disputing most of the alleged cost overstatements and NASA as disputing one of them.

The GAO, which seldom names contractors in its reports, said Boeing's cost overstatements increased its potential earnings because under the contract the government pays costs plus an incentive fee.

Law Officers And Mitchell Plan Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and a baker's dozen of the nation's top law officers meet Friday for a discussion of the escalation in police shootings and terrorist bombings.

The conference grew out of an invitation dropped by the attorney general in a speech earlier this month to the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Such a meeting, Mitchell said then, "would be most constructive and most helpful in clarifying all of the problems relating to these subject matters."

Adding urgency to the attempt to find solutions are figures released recently by the IACP showing 560 attacks on policemen and 21 deaths for the three-month period starting last July 1.

The IACP count also listed 141 bombings during the period.

Among the problems likely to be discussed by the 13 state and local law enforcement heads invited: Alleged failure of federal authorities to pass on some information to local police.

Such a failure was alluded to last summer when several Midwestern mayors met in Omaha, Neb., after a rash of bombings in their cities. But Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy, who raised the charge, refused to elaborate.

A subsequent meeting with Mitchell quieted complaints by the mayors, but similar rumblings have come out of several police organizations, including the IACP.

Mitchell last week said there had been no substantiation of any such allegations that reached him. And FBI officials, publicly making no comment, angrily denied in private that information needed by police would ever be withheld.

One purpose of the meeting undoubtedly will be to acquaint the police officials with new federal laws restricting legal access to explosives and increasing penalties for illegal use.

The new laws also give the FBI immediate jurisdiction in campus bombings and authorize use of electronic surveillance in suspected bombing plots.

Indict Mills For Murder Of Sheriff

McARTHUR, Ohio (AP) — Arlo Chatfield, Vinton County prosecuting attorney, announced today that the county grand jury has indicted 60-year-old Oliver Mills of near Creola on a first-degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of Sheriff Harold Steele Aug. 31.

The grand jury began its session Monday and the indictment was filed with the county clerk of courts Wednesday morning.

Mills is being held in the Pickaway County jail at Circleville because security arrangements in the Clinton County jail are not considered adequate.

The man was arrested in the hills of Vinton County Sept. 5 after one of the state's most intensive manhunts.

Sheriff Steele was shot to death at Mills' home when he went there to serve a warrant relating to a property easement. His deputy, David Wilbur, was wounded.

Mills had been involved in a court case in which a power company sought an order to permit construction of a power line on the easement over Mills' land.

Mills pleaded innocent to the charge at his original court arraignment. No time has been set for arraignment on the indictment.

Economy Sparks Political Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-cornered political argument over whether the nation's economy is improving or getting worse under President Nixon's policies is enlivening the congressional campaign.

"There is no economic upturn in sight," AFL-CIO President George Meany, said Tuesday, and added that things could get worse. He cited a 10 per cent rise in living costs and nearly 2 million more unemployed in Nixon's first 29 months in office.

Herbert Stein, top Nixon economic adviser, countered by saying the rate of inflation is declining, production output is no longer falling and the general economy is headed for recovery.

House Speaker John W. McCormack—a Democrat—chimed in by charging the administration had planned to withhold until after the Nov. 3 elections a new report showing five more major industrial cities with substantial unemployment of 6 to 8.9 per cent—compared with the national rate of 5.5 per cent.

The Labor Department confirmed McCormack's figures and released the report, but sharply denied any intent to withhold it. "There is absolutely no truth to that," a spokesman said. McCormack and congressmen from other affected states were given a few hours' advance notice in line with usual policy, he added.

The report added the Los Angeles-Long Beach, San Diego and San Bernardino-Riverside-Ontario areas of California, along with New Brunswick-Perth Amboy, N.J., and Lawrence-Haverhill, Mass., to the list of substantial jobless areas. That brings the total to 38 of the nation's 150 major industrial areas with substantial unemployment.

The report also removed two major areas from the list, Rome-Utica, N.Y., and Kenosha, Wis., because of improved employment, added 13 smaller areas to the substantial jobless list and one—Roundup, Mont.—as a persistent jobless area. It said a total of 626 large and small labor areas are now classified as substantial or persistent jobless areas.

Stein, in a speech prepared for a conference in London, renewed a Nixon administration claim that the 5.5 per cent national jobless rate—highest in nearly seven years—was itself overstated because the September job survey was done in the

Military Rules Ecuador After Air Chief's Kidnaping

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The Ecuadorian dictatorship held two sons of the ousted leftist vice president and a son of an exiled provincial chief today, but there was no word on the fate of the kidnaped air force commander.

Truckloads of soldiers patrolled Quito and other cities as the army and national police searched for Gen. Cesar Rohn Sandoval, 45, abducted by several persons from his car Tuesday morning.

President Jose Velasco Ibarra declared martial law. The army stopped publication of four large newspapers, and paratroopers occupied broadcasting stations.

Airports were closed, and the highways were under military control. There were many arrests. The country was under curfew from 9 p.m. until 5 a.m.

Cabinet ministers and high military officers met at the national palace and in the Defense Ministry when they learned of the abduction, and they suspended ceremonies honoring the 50th anniversary of the air force.

Extraordinary security measures were ordered to protect delegations to the celebration from 10 South American countries and the United States, Britain and Spain.

Those arrested included the sons of former Vice President Jorge Zavala Bquerizo, who was ousted by Velasco Ibarra when the 77-year-old president established a dictatorship last June with the backing of the armed forces. Also picked up was the son of Gov. Asaad Bucaram, who fled to Panama after the presidential coup.

The coup was preceded by a period of violent student unrest, and the dictatorship shut down Congress and the universities and rounded up labor and student leaders, university officials and other leftists.

Calley Back In Vietnam For Probe

CHU LAI, Vietnam (AP) — 1st Lt. William Calley Jr. arrived in South Vietnam today to interview survivors of the 1968 My Lai killings but apparently will not visit the scene.

This became known several hours after Calley, who faces a U.S. Army court-martial for the My Lai incident, flew into Saigon from the United States accompanied by his military counsel and one of the Army's prosecutors.

Official spokesmen of Calley's former division, the Americal Division, announced that at the request of Calley's Army defense lawyer, Maj. Kenneth A. Raby, the division will not make public Calley's movements in Vietnam or the identification of any witnesses.

Calley's announced purpose in coming to Vietnam is to take depositions from five South Vietnamese witnesses.

He is charged with murder in the deaths of 102 Vietnamese in My Lai on March 16, 1968.

The 27-year-old lieutenant was the platoon leader of the unit of the Americal Division which attacked the hamlet on that date.

Barrett Appointed To Regents Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Charles B. Barrett, a director of the University of Cincinnati, was appointed by Gov. James A. Rhodes Tuesday as a member of the Ohio Board of Regents.

Barrett, medical director and vice president of the Western and Southern Life Insurance Co., will complete the term until Sept. 20, 1978, of William H. Zimmer, who resigned.

McCroom Appointed To Government Post

CINCINNATI (AP)—E. Winther McCroom, president of Cincinnati's Community Action Commission and a former U.S. Attorney has been appointed a consultant to the Community Relations Service of the U.S. Department of Justice.

In the position he will be on call to work in civil rights trouble spots throughout the midwest including Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and parts of Wisconsin.

U.S. Cautious On Mideast

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States is sounding out other members of the United Nations before taking a stand in the Middle East debate now under way in the General Assembly.

"We are consulting with other delegations," said a U.S. source. "Our precise position will depend on developments."

U.S. sources said Ambassador Charles W. Yost will speak in the debate but probably will wait until a resolution is introduced. He discussed the Middle East situation in separate talks Monday with Foreign Ministers Abba Eban of Israel and Mahmoud Rihan of Egypt.

The United States and other members are moving cautiously until they find out what the Arab states and their allies intend to take.

Washington has made clear that it wants the Big Powers to do their utmost to enable U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring to resume his role as the go-between in indirect negotiations between Israel and Egypt and Jordan. But the United States has balked at fixing a target date for resumption of Jarring's mission. The Americans are still backing Israel's refusal to resume the talks until Egypt pulls back the Soviet anti-aircraft missiles which the United States and Israel charge have been moved closer to the Suez Canal zone in violation of the three-month cease-fire that began Aug. 7.

Egypt apparently hopes the assembly will call for resumption of the Jarring talks without mentioning any Egyptian cease-fire violations. This would make it difficult for the United States to withstand pressure from the other three members of the Big Four for unconditional resumption of the Israeli-Arab negotiations.

Polls Show Gilligan Coasting Into Governor's Chair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—J.J. Gilligan, Democrat in the Kennedy image, appears on the verge of ending many years of Republican rule in the statehouse.

The 49-year-old Cincinnati insurance executive holds a comfortable lead in pre-election polls by both Democrats and Republicans a week before the Nov. 3 showdown.

Private polls conducted by Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Republican U.S. Senate candidate, indicate Gilligan holds an 11 per cent lead over Republican governor candidate Roger Cloud.

The State Republican poll gives Gilligan a 13 per cent margin while polls by the state Democratic party and the Columbus Dispatch give Gilligan a margin of 15.3 per cent.

Undecided votes in the various polls range from 3 per cent to 5.3 per cent.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown estimates that 3,296,250 Ohioans will vote.

The once powerful Republican party, enmeshed in a state loan scandal, is worried that Gilligan will take several lackluster Democratic hopefuls on his coattails.

Republicans hold every state office and have commanding margins in both the House and Senate. They also hold 18 of Ohio's 24 congressional seats.

"If Gilligan can be held to less than a 200,000 vote margin," said a Republican insider, "we can save some of our ticket. If he goes over that, the entire ticket and a lot of the legislative seats are in trouble."

The two chief contenders — five others are in the race including three write-ins — are spending the final days of the campaign in a blitz of the state's metropolitan areas.

Both are relying heavily on a last-week, saturation radio and television campaign. Cloud had to curtail some advertising earlier because of a lack of funds.

"There is a need for a new day, a new era," says Gilligan. He says Cloud represents "the old politics that has strangled progressive government too long."

Cloud hits hard at Gilligan for advocating what he labels "a billion dollars in new taxes." Gilligan counters that bonding programs of outgoing Gov. James A. Rhodes have already cost more than that.

Gilligan advocates an income tax on corporations to provide more money for education and mental health. He has said he would consider a state income tax if more money were needed.

Cloud, in turn, says he would veto any state income tax if elected. He calls for a county income tax mandated by the legislature but with the revenues handled locally.

"It's an argument on semantics," said one independent voter. "Either way the taxpayer is going to pay more. I don't like either."

Ohio has no state income tax. The outgoing administration has used bond issues to finance most of its projects.

Gilligan says the state's bonded indebtedness for eight years is $1.3 billion, with $1.46 million spent on interest alone.

But the loan scandal is the heaviest political cross the Republicans have to bear.

Cloud, as auditor, said last spring the treasurer's office made several illegal loans to private corporations. But Cloud

U.S., Russian Space Linkup Could Be Made

MOSCOW (AP) — The president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said today that the Soviet government considers it "expedient" to build spaceships sufficiently compatible with U.S. spacecraft to permit Soviet-American docking and rescue operations.

Mstislav V. Keldysh told a news conference that Soviet space experts had just completed two days of exploratory negotiations with representatives of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Moscow.

In answer to a question on the prospects of close U.S.-Soviet space cooperation, Keldysh replied:

"The fact that we had these talks shows that we are interested in having compatible spaceships. But this is a very complex matter that requires further study."

He said he was satisfied with the talks and another round will be held later "to continue the study" of the prospects.

The news conference was called for a report on results of the unmanned Luna 16 spaceship, which landed on the moon last month, scooped up a sample of moon soil and returned it to the earth. No report was given on the photographs taken by the unmanned Zond 8 satellite which landed in the Indian Ocean and was recovered Tuesday night after a trip around the moon. Tass said, that flight was "successfully completed and the planned program of scientific-technical studies and experiment has been fully accomplished."

Keldysh said the NASA representatives were the first foreigners to view the 3.5 ounces of moon soil brought back by Luna 16. He said samples of the soil might be distributed to foreign scientists "if there is a need for experiments that our researchers cannot carry out."

Alexander Vinogradov, Keldysh's deputy, told the newsmen the composition of the Luna 16 samples differed considerably from those gathered by the Apollo 11 and Apollo 12 astronauts. But he said it would be premature to try to determine the origin of the moon at this point.

The story of the moon's origin "must await wider exploration" of the lunar surface, he said. Luna 16 took its samples from the Sea of Fertility, 540 miles from the Apollo 12 landing in the Ocean of Storms. Apollo 11 landed in the Sea of Tranquility.

Vinogradov said it would "probably not be correct" to say that a Luna-type ship will be used to explore other parts of the solar system. But he said many parts of the craft would be incorporated into new designs for flights to other planets.

Keldysh added that "within the next decade" Soviet scientists might try unmanned round-trip missions to the nearest planets, Venus and Mars.

In future roundtrip flights, he added, the returning capsule might bring back closeup photographs, atmospheric data and other materials instead of moon soil.

Keldysh reiterated that the Soviet government is making no preparations for a manned moon landing, preferring to concentrate instead on unmanned flights, "which are reliable and less expensive."

Many apartment complexes now include golf courses, recreation rooms, bars and gymnasiums, he said. Family projects even have day nurseries with baby sitters, he added.

Apartment complexes, which once contained no more than eight to 10 living units, are now being built for thousands of families he said.

This trend toward bigness Gross continued, brings new capital requirements. A 6,000-unit project being built in Atlanta, for example, will cost some $12 million, he said.

The problem of financing new construction is further exacerbated by zooming costs. Gross said, pointing out that interest rates and labor expenses have almost doubled in the last five years.

This is leading some builders to sit on their shovels. National Real Estate Investor magazine quotes Chicago developer Anthony Belli as saying he no longer finds it profitable to build new apartments. Similar trends in Detroit and Columbus, Ohio, were cited by the magazine.

Part of the slack, though, is being taken up by the federal government which is subsidizing apartment construction under the Housing Act of 1968.

"The percentage of apartment construction done under federal housing authority auspices is growing by leaps and bounds," an FHA spokesman said.

The figure jumped from 3 per cent in 1967 to 12 per cent in 1969 and 1970 estimates range as high as 18 per cent, he said.

Military Rules Ecuador After Air Chief's Kidnaping

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The Ecuadorian dictatorship held two sons of the ousted leftist vice president and a son of an exiled provincial chief today, but there was no word on the fate of the kidnaped air force commander.

Truckloads of soldiers patrolled Quito and other cities as the army and national police searched for Gen. Cesar Rohn Sandoval, 45, abducted by several persons from his car Tuesday morning.

President Jose Velasco Ibarra declared martial law. The army stopped publication of four large newspapers, and paratroopers occupied broadcasting stations.

Airports were closed, and the highways were under military control. There were many arrests. The country was under curfew from 9 p.m. until 5 a.m.

Cabinet ministers and high military officers met at the national palace and in the Defense Ministry when they learned of the abduction, and they suspended ceremonies honoring the 50th anniversary of the air force.

Extraordinary security measures were ordered to protect delegations to the celebration from 10 South American countries and the United States, Britain and Spain.

Those arrested included the sons of former Vice President Jorge Zavala Bquerizo, who was ousted by Velasco Ibarra when the 77-year-old president established a dictatorship last June with the backing of the armed forces. Also picked up was the son of Gov. Asaad Bucaram, who fled to Panama after the presidential coup.

The coup was preceded by a period of violent student unrest, and the dictatorship shut down Congress and the universities and rounded up labor and student leaders, university officials and other leftists.

Calley Back In Vietnam For Probe

CHU LAI, Vietnam (AP) — 1st Lt. William Calley Jr. arrived in South Vietnam today to interview survivors of the 1968 My Lai killings but apparently will not visit the scene.

This became known several hours after Calley, who faces a U.S. Army court-martial for the My Lai incident, flew into Saigon from the United States accompanied by his military counsel and one of the Army's prosecutors.

Official spokesmen of Calley's former division, the Americal Division, announced that at the request of Calley's Army defense lawyer, Maj. Kenneth A. Raby, the division will not make public Calley's movements in Vietnam or the identification of any witnesses.

Calley's announced purpose in coming to Vietnam is to take depositions from five South Vietnamese witnesses.

He is charged with murder in the deaths of 102 Vietnamese in My Lai on March 16, 1968.

The 27-year-old lieutenant was the platoon leader of the unit of the Americal Division which attacked the hamlet on that date.

Polls Show Gilligan Coasting Into Governor's Chair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—J.J. Gilligan, Democrat in the Kennedy image, appears on the verge of ending many years of Republican rule in the statehouse.

The 49-year-old Cincinnati insurance executive holds a comfortable lead in pre-election polls by both Democrats and Republicans a week before the Nov. 3 showdown.

Private polls conducted by Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Republican U.S. Senate candidate, indicate Gilligan holds an 11 per cent lead over Republican governor candidate Roger Cleveland.

The State Republican poll gives Gilligan a 13 per cent margin while polls by the state Democratic party and the Columbus Dispatch give Gilligan a margin of 15.3 per cent.

Undecided votes in the various polls range from 3 per cent to 5.3 per cent.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown estimates that 3,296,250 Ohioans will vote.

The once powerful Republican party, enmeshed in a state loan scandal, is worried that Gilligan will take several lackluster Democratic hopefuls in on his coattails.

Republicans hold every state office and have commanding margins in both the House and Senate. They also hold 18 of Ohio's 24 congressional seats.

"If Gilligan can be held to less than a 200,000 vote margin," said a Republican insider, "we can save some of our ticket. If he goes over that, the entire ticket and a lot of the legislative seats are in trouble."

The two chief contenders — five others are in the race including three write-ins — are spending the final days of the campaign in a blitz of the state's metropolitan areas.

Both are relying heavily on a last-week, saturation radio and television campaign. Cleveland has curtailed some advertising earlier because of a lack of funds.

"There is a need for a new day, a new era," says Gilligan. He says Cleveland represents "the old politics that has strangled progressive government too long."

Cloud hits hard at Gilligan for advocating what he labels "a billion dollars in new taxes." Gilligan counters that bonding programs of outgoing Gov. James A. Rhodes have already cost more than that.

Gilligan advocates an income tax on corporations to provide more money for education and mental health. He has said he would consider a state income tax if more money were needed.

Cloud, in turn, says he would veto any state income tax if elected. He calls for a county income tax mandated by the legislature but with the revenues handled locally.

"It's an argument on semantics," said one independent voter, "Either way the taxpayer is going to pay more. I don't like either."

Ohio has no state income tax. The outgoing administration has used bond issues to finance most of its projects.

Gilligan says the state's bonded indebtedness for eight years is $1.3 billion, with $146 million spent on interest alone.

But the loan scandal is the heaviest political cross the Republicans have to bear.

Cloud, as auditor, said last spring the treasurer's office made several illegal loans to private corporations. But Cloud

U.S., Russian Space Linkup Could Be Made

MOSCOW (AP) — The president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said today that the Soviet government considers it "expedient" to build spaceships sufficiently compatible with U.S. spacecraft to permit Soviet-American docking and rescue operations.

Mstislav V. Keldysh told a news conference that Soviet space experts had just completed two days of exploratory negotiations with representatives of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Moscow.

In answer to a question on the prospects of close U.S.-Soviet space cooperation, Keldysh replied:

"The fact that we had these talks shows that we are interested in having compatible spaceships. But this is a very complex matter that requires further study."

He said he was satisfied with the talks and another round will be held later "to continue the study" of the prospects.

The news conference was called for a report on results of the unmanned Luna 16 spaceship, which landed on the moon last month, scooped up a sample of moon soil and returned it to the earth. No report was given on the photographs taken by the unmanned Zond 8 satellite which landed in the Indian Ocean and was recovered Tuesday night after a trip around the moon. Tass said that flight was "successfully completed and the planned program of scientific-technical studies and experiment has been fully accomplished."

Keldysh said the NASA representatives were the first foreigners to view the 3.5 ounces of moon soil brought back by Luna 16. He said samples of the soil might be distributed to foreign scientists "if there is a need for experiments that our researchers cannot carry out."

Alexander Vinogradov, Keldysh's deputy, told the newsmen the composition of the Luna 16 samples differed considerably from those gathered by the Apollo 11 and Apollo 12 astronauts. But he said it would be premature to try to determine the origin of the moon at this point.

"The story of the moon's origin 'must await wider exploration' of the lunar surface, he said. Luna 16 took its samples from the Sea of Fertility, 540 miles from the Apollo 12 landing in the Ocean of Storms. Apollo 11 landed in the Sea of Tranquility.

Vinogradov said it would "probably not be correct" to say that a Luna-type ship will be used to explore other parts of the solar system. But he said many parts of the craft would be incorporated into new designs for flights to other planets.

Keldysh added that "within the next decade" Soviet scientists might try unmanned round-trip missions to the nearest planets, Venus and Mars.

In future round-trip flights, he added, the returning capsule might bring back closeup photographs, atmospheric data and other materials instead of moon soil.

Keldysh reiterated that the Soviet government is making no preparations for a manned moon landing, preferring to concentrate instead on unmanned flights, "which are reliable and less expensive."

In addition, Donahue and his two partners — Harry A. Groban and Sidney D. Griffith — were each indicted on six counts of making false statements to secure loans for clients from that fund.

Many Republicans who normally give to GOP campaigns are contributing to Gilligan, partly because of disgust over the loan mess and partly because they want to be on the winning side," said one GOP official.

Cloud's campaign staff, directed by H. B. (Buck) Limehouse of the Republican National Headquarters, say they want to swing the undecided votes over to their side.

The undecided vote three weeks ago was as high as 25 per cent but has narrowed in recent polls to as low as 3 per cent in the race.

Absentee voting is running high in Democratic areas but is off in counties where Republicans usually draw their heaviest turnout.

Gilligan, a former Cincinnati city councilman, was elected to congress in the Johnson landslide of 1964. He served one term.

Cloud served nine two-year terms in the Ohio House, including five as speaker. During those years, he built up a knowledgeable men in state government.

But on the political rostrum, he has a tendency to be dull. He reads his speeches. Once he even read an instruction, "place emphasis here," that a speechwriter had inserted.

Gilligan, his red hair dangling over his forehead, can turn on an audience without mentioning specifics. Where Cloud is technical, Gilligan generalizes.

Man Sought In Connection With Robbery

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Police were searching today for a one-time Atlanta gambling figure who they said failed to come forward with a promised statement in connection with a robbery which netted between $100,000 and $200,000 Monday night.

The robbery occurred in northwest Atlanta at the home of a girl friend of Gordon "Chicken Man" Williams, according to Lt. J. R. Shattles and Detective W. H. Byrd. Most of the victims had attended the Muhammad Ali-Jerry Quarry fight earlier Monday night.

Byrd said Williams had promised to come to police headquarters and give a statement but had failed to keep the appointment.

His girl friend, Barbara Smith, and another woman were taken hostage by six to eight masked gunmen who, according to police, methodically robbed some 100 party-goers of jewelry, clothes and cash. One woman was released but Miss Smith was still missing, police said.

Williams, registered as the owner of the house in a fashionable black neighborhood, has a three-page police record, including arrests for narcotics and gambling offenses, police said.

The robbery took approximately three hours as the party-goers, hearing at ringside about the party, entered a few at a time. Some of them even received engraved invitations.

According to witnesses, the "guests" were greeted at the door by a smiling woman and shortly thereafter by a bandit wearing a ski mask and carrying a sawed-off shotgun.

The victims were taken to the basement where they were forced to dump their jewelry and cash in the middle of the floor. Some were forced to disrobe, witnesses said.

Most of the victims were from out of town and only five filed complaints. The loss involved in the five official complaints amounts to about $7,500, police said.

Registrants Report For Army Duty

Three Pickaway County registrants were inducted into the Armed Forces Oct. 22 through the Selective Service draft lottery. Danny Thomas, 717 S. Court St., Philip Dingus, Route 2, Orient and Glenn Plum, 610 Ridgewood Drive reported to Ft. Hayes Induction Center in Columbus for service with the Army.

The inductees were served coffee and doughnuts and each man was presented a gift packet by Red Cross Volunteers prior to their departure from Circleville.

The packets of useable small items were a gift from Red Cross and Sertoma Club. Doughnuts were donated by Lindsey's Bakery.

One Pickaway County registrant will be inducted during the month of November. There will also be a local draft call in December, according to the Selective Service secretary. The local office has not been informed as to when the call will be made nor how many men are expected to report then for induction.

Number 195 of the draft lottery will remain the ceiling for inductees of 1970.

Major Dairies Hike Milk Price

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Major dairies in the Central Ohio area have announced a penny-a-quart increase in the price of milk and other fresh milk products.

The dairies sell at retail for home delivery and at wholesale to stores, but spokesmen said stores normally raise their retail prices by the same amount as the wholesale increase.

The dairies blamed the 25 cents per hundredweight — one-half cent per quart — increase recently won by the Central Ohio Co. - Operative Milk Producers, Inc., which represents farmers. Store prices in the Central Ohio area now range from 53 cents to over 60 cents a half gallon of homogenized milk.

2nd Soviet Plane Hijacked In Political Asylum Bid

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish authorities today questioned two Soviet students seeking asylum after the second successful hijacking of a Soviet plane in two weeks. There was speculation that the hijacking would harden the Soviet government's attitude toward two U.S. generals whose plane crossed into Soviet Armenia last week.

Nikolai Gintov, 20, and Vitaly Pozdeyr, 25, "put a bag over the pilot's head, trussed him up and landed the plane at Sinop themselves" Tuesday, the semi-official Turkish news agency Anatolia reported.

"They said let's go, and we came," pilot Alexei Menshikov, 50, said.

The Turkish government sent state security police and an interpreter to Sinop, on Turkey's Black Sea coast to investigate. Anatolia said the pair had been planning their escape from the Soviet Union for two years.

The plane, a small two-engine craft of the government-owned Soviet airline Aeroflot, was on a domestic flight from Kerch to Krasnodar, north of the Black Sea, when Gintov and Pozdeyr took it over. One other passenger was aboard, Yuri Derbinov, 35.

The first hijacking of a Soviet plane to Turkey was carried out Oct. 15 by two Lithuanians, Pranas Stasio Brazinskas and his son Algedas. They diverted an Aeroflot airliner to Trabzon, 200 miles east of Sinop, after killing a stewardess and wounding three crew members.

The father and son also have asked for political asylum, while the Soviet government has demanded their return to face criminal action. The Turkish minister of justice is studying the case, and there have been indications that the government will let the Turkish courts decide whether the pair is entitled to refuge under a provision of the Turkish criminal code which says foreigners accused of crimes abroad that were politically motivated cannot be sent back for trial.

The Soviet ambassador to Turkey hinted Tuesday that the Russians might use a Turkish colonel now being held in the Soviet Union in bargaining for the two Lithuanians. The colonel, Cevat Denel, was aboard the small American military Beechcraft that the U.S. government says lost its way and landed in Soviet Armenia last week while taking two American generals on an inspection flight in Turkey.

B52s Pound Reds In Laos To Disrupt Supply Routes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers flew more strikes today against North Vietnamese supply routes through southern Laos. The big bombers have flown more than 500 strikes in the region in the past 2½ weeks.

Many of the raids are concentrated in a 70-square-mile area just west of the demilitarized zone. The area is south of the Bang Hien River and north of Khe Sanh, and there have been reports of heavy North Vietnamese movement through it toward the northwestern part of South Vietnam.

North Vietnam charged Tuesday that many U.S. warplanes, including B52 bombers, attacked Huong Lap Village in the northern part of the demilitarized zone last Sunday.

"We don't comment on propaganda from Hanoi," said a U.S. spokesman.

The B52s have concentrated their raids along a 200-mile stretch of the Ho Chi Minh trail through the southern Laotian panhandle. The campaign is so concentrated that no B52 raids have been flown in South Vietnam since Oct. 10.

Despite the massive campaign, sources said, there has been a sizable buildup of North Vietnamese troops in the northern quarter of South Vietnam. Informants said one North Vietnamese division is pushing from the west and is poised just southwest of Khe Sanh, and that one regiment crossed the demilitarized zone and is within 12 miles of the provincial capital of Quang Tri.

Tons of supplies were reported moving along a four-lane highway running southwestward from the DMZ into Laos and then circling around eastward to the north of Khe Sanh.

Meanwhile, Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Phnom Penh that Hanoi has committed almost another division to oppose a major Cambodian offensive expected to start this week north of the capital. The objective of the operation is to recapturing more than 1,000 square miles of Cambodia's heartland.

Cambodian troops operating near Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, were attacked Tuesday. First reports said the Cambodian soldier was killed and another wounded, and that 10 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed. Field reports indicated that the fighting and losses may have been far more serious.

American bombers were called in to support the Cambodian troops.

A Cambodian spokesman said that Cambodian forces had recaptured the town of Kirivong, near the South Vietnamese border and 70 miles south of Phnom Penh. The area had been one of the enemy's sanctuaries. Cambodian troops were forced out of the region six months ago.

Questioners Find Marijuana Use Among Student Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of every 10 high school academic leaders contacted in a national survey say they personally use marijuana.

More than 22,000 youths 16 to 18 years old in 48,000 private, public and parochial schools responded to the 70-question survey distributed by Merit Publishing Co., Northfield, Ill.

Recipients, all juniors and seniors, were top scholars and student leaders recommended by the schools, the sponsors said.

When asked whether they use marijuana now, 10 per cent replied yes, 88 per cent said no and 2 per cent didn't respond. In answer to another question, 21 per cent indicated that they would use it if marijuana were legalized.

When asked whether they approve of premarital sexual intercourse, 5 per cent failed to respond, 53 per cent said no and 42 per cent said yes. But 24 per cent of the respondents ducked the question when asked whether they participated in sexual relations. Of those answering, 16 per cent said they had and 60 per cent said they had not.

The sponsors said nine students were elected to write the questions, which range from Vietnam to drug use and national politics to ecology.

Most of the students said that ending the Vietnam war is the nation's No. 1 priority and a whopping 85 per cent said that respect for this country had suffered because of the Vietnam conflict.

On race relations, 68 per cent opposed busing students from either black or white communities, but 84 per cent said they would move into an integrated neighborhood.

On national politics, 75 per cent favored lowering the voting age to 18, and 85 per cent would abolish the electoral college. Forty-six per cent said they would have voted for President Nixon in 1968, 40 per cent for Hubert Humphrey and 5 per cent for George Wallace.

Agnew Says Government Plays Fair

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, launching a final campaign push in Dixie, says the Nixon Southern strategy is simply to play fair with the South.

"That's what it is, and that's all it is," Agnew declared Monday night.

And playing fair, Agnew told some 7,000 cheering Republicans in North Carolina State University's Reynolds Coliseum, "is exactly what we do."

The vice president hammered away at this theme in campaign appearances Monday here and in Greenville, S.C.

He pledged more Southern nominations to the Supreme Court, firm opposition to busing to achieve racial balance in schools and administration support for the textile import quotas so favored by the region's most important industry.

Agnew goes to New York City tonight for what is billed as a nonpolitical and long-planned appearance before the Navy League.

He returns to Georgia and Alabama Wednesday before heading out to the Midwest for the windup of his eight-week campaign tour.

Fifty-two per cent said they felt Nixon is doing a good job as president.

Donahue, a former Republican state tax commissioner, and two fellow officers in the money-finding firm that arranged the loans have been indicted along with James Lore, a former investment officer of the School Employees Retirement System, on 19 counts of bribery in connection with the loans.

In addition, Donahue and his two partners — Harry A. Groban and Sidney D. Griffith — were each indicted on six counts of making false statements to secure loans from the firm.

Many Republicans who normally give to GOP campaigns are contributing to Gilligan, partly because of disgust over the loan mess and partly because they want to be on the winning side," said one GOP official.

Cloud's campaign staff, directed by H. B. (Buck) Limehouse of the Republican National Headquarters, say they want to swing the undecided votes over to their side.

The undecided vote three weeks ago was as high as 25 per cent but has narrowed in recent polls to as low as 3 per cent in the race.

Absentee voting is running high in Democratic areas but is off in counties where Republicans usually draw their heaviest turnout.

Gilligan, a former Cincinnati city councilman, was elected to congress in the Johnson landslide of 1964. He served one term.

Cloud served nine two-year terms in the Ohio House, including five as speaker. During those years, he built up an knowledgeable men in state government.

But on the political rostrum, he has a tendency to be dull. He reads his speeches. Once he even read an instruction, "place emphasis here," that a speechwriter had inserted.

Gilligan, his red hair dangling over his forehead, can turn on an audience without mentioning specifics. Where Cloud is technical, Gilligan generalizes.

Tip Brings TNT Find

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — An anonymous telephone caller told police Tuesday they could find a large amount of guns and explosives at a motel.

"You're not going to get any bodies to go with this, so be happy. Be satisfied with what you're getting," the caller said.

Police found on the bed in a motel room on 55th Street: 20 sticks of heavy demolition dynamite, three machine guns, 16 incendiary fragmentation bombs, four gas grenades and two anti-personnel fragmentation grenades. They said the dynamite was enough to blow up three city blocks.

They also found 10 bags of drugs, believed to be methamphetamine, cocaine and heroin worth $5,000.

They were looking for two girls, one a blonde, the other a brunette, who had rented the room.

Manson Helper Says 'Death Charlie's Trip'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Death is Charlie's trip," says a former member of Charles Manson's hippie-style "family" who claims the ex-convict told him to die several times and once tried to strangle him.

Paul Watkins, 29, who said he once believed that Manson was Jesus Christ, testified at the Sharon Tate murder trial Tuesday about the beginnings of the family, Manson's philosophy and his preoccupation with death.

Once, he said, he and Manson were on an LSD trip together when "he just jumped up and started choking me. He was laying on top of me overpowering me . . . He looked into my eyes and smiled and said, 'I'm going to kill you now.'"

Man Sought In Connection With Robbery

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Police were searching today for a one-time Atlanta gambling figure who they said failed to come forward with a promised statement in connection with a robbery which netted between $100,000 and $200,000 Monday night.

The robbery occurred in northwest Atlanta at the home of a girl friend of Gordon "Chicken Man" Williams, according to Lt. J. R. Shattles and Detective W. H. Byrd. Most of the victims had attended the Muhammad Ali-Jerry Quarry fight earlier Monday night.

Byrd said Williams had promised to come to police headquarters and give a statement but had failed to keep the appointment.

His girl friend, Barbara Smith, and another woman were taken hostage by six to eight masked gunmen who, according to police, methodically robbed some 100 party-goers of jewelry, clothes and cash. One woman was released but Miss Smith was still missing, police said.

Williams, registered as the owner of the house in a fashionable black neighborhood, has a three-page police record, including arrests for narcotics and gambling offenses, police said.

The robbery took approximately three hours as the party-goers, hearing at ringside about the party, entered a few at a time. Some of them even received engraved invitations.

According to witnesses, the "guests" were greeted at the door by a smiling woman and shortly thereafter by a bandit wearing a ski mask and carrying a sawed-off shotgun.

The victims were taken to the basement where they were forced to dump their jewelry and cash in the middle of the floor. Some were forced to disrobe, witnesses said.

Most of the victims were from out of town and only five filed complaints. The loss involved in the five official complaints amounts to about $7,500, police said.

Registrants Report For Army Duty

Three Pickaway County registrants were inducted into the Armed Forces Oct. 22 through the Selective Service draft lottery. Danny Thomas, 717 S. Court St., Philip Dingus, Route 2, Orient and Glenn Plume, 610 Ridgewood Drive reported to Ft. Hayes Induction Center in Columbus for service with the Army.

The inductees were served coffee and doughnuts and each man was presented a gift packet by Red Cross Volunteers prior to their departure from Circleville.

The packets of useable small items were a gift from Red Cross and Sertoma Club. Doughnuts were donated by Lindsey's Bakery.

One Pickaway County registrant will be inducted during the month of November. There will also be a local draft call in December, according to the Selective Service secretary. The local office has not been informed as to when the call will be made nor how many men are expected to report then for induction.

Number 195 of the draft lottery will remain the ceiling for inductees of 1970.

Major Dairies Hike Milk Price

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Major dairies in the Central Ohio area have announced a penny-a-quart increase in the price of milk and other fresh milk products.

The dairies sell at retail for home delivery and at wholesale to stores, but spokesmen said stores normally raise their retail prices by the same amount as the wholesale increase.

The dairies blamed the 25 cents per hundredweight — one-half cent per quart — increase recently won by the Central Ohio Co-Operative Milk Producers, Inc., which represents farmers. Store prices in the Central Ohio area now range from 53 cents to over 60 cents a half gallon of homogenized milk.

2nd Soviet Plane Hijacked In Political Asylum Bid

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish authorities today questioned two Soviet students seeking asylum after the second successful hijacking of a Soviet plane in two weeks. There was speculation that the hijacking would harden the Soviet government's attitude toward two U.S. generals whose plane crossed into Soviet Armenia last week.

Nikolai Gulinov, 20, and Vitaly Pozdeyir, 25, "put a bag over the pilot's head, trussed him up and landed the plane at Sinop themselves" Tuesday, the semi-official Turkish news agency Anatolia reported.

"They said let's go, and we came," pilot Alexei Menshikov, 50, said.

The Turkish government sent state security police and an interpreter to Sinop, on Turkey's Black Sea coast to investigate. Anatolia said the pair had been planning their escape from the Soviet Union for two years.

The plane, a small two-engine craft of the government-owned Soviet airline Aeroflot, was on a domestic flight from Kerch to Krasnodar, north of the Black Sea, when Gulinov and Pozdeyir took it over. One other passenger was aboard, Yuri Derbinov, 35.

The first hijacking of a Soviet plane to Turkey was carried out Oct. 15 by two Lithuanians Pranas Stasio Brazinskas and his son Aigedas. They diverted an Aeroflot airliner to Trabzon, 200 miles east of Sinop, after killing a stewardess and wounding three crew members.

The father and son also have asked for political asylum, while the Soviet government has demanded their return to face criminal action. The Turkish minister of justice is studying the case, and there have been indications that the government will let the Turkish courts decide whether the pair is entitled to refuge under a provision of the Turkish criminal code which says foreigners accused of crimes abroad that were politically motivated cannot be sent back for trial.

The Soviet ambassador to Turkey hinted Tuesday that the Russians might use a Turkish colonel now being held in the Soviet Union in bargaining for the two Lithuanians. The colonel, Cevat Denel, was aboard the small American military Beechcraft that the U.S. government says lost its way and landed in Soviet Armenia last week while taking two American generals on an inspection flight in Turkey.

B52s Pound Reds In Laos To Disrupt Supply Routes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers flew more strikes today against North Vietnamese supply routes through southern Laos. The b-5 bombers have flown more than 500 strikes in the region in the past 2½ weeks.

Many of the raids are concentrated in a 70-square-mile area just west of the demilitarized zone. The area is south of the Bang Hien River and north of Khe Sanh, and there have been reports of heavy North Vietnamese movement through it toward the northwestern part of South Vietnam.

North Vietnam charged Tuesday that many U.S. warplanes, including B52 bombers, attacked Huong Lap Village in the northern part of the demilitarized zone last Sunday.

"We don't comment on propaganda from Hanoi," said a U.S. spokesman.

The B52s have concentrated their raids along a 200-mile stretch of the Ho Chi Minh trail through the southern Laotian peninsula. The campaign is so concentrated that no B52 raids have been flown in South Vietnam since Oct. 10.

Despite the massive campaign, sources said, there has been a sizable buildup of North Vietnamese troops in the northern quarter of South Vietnam. Informants said one North Vietnamese division is pushing from the west and is poised just southwest of Khe Sanh, and that one regiment crossed the demilitarized zone and is within 12 miles of the provincial capital of Quang Tri.

Tons of supplies were reported moving along a four-lane highway running southwestward from the DMZ into Laos and then circling around eastward to the north of Khe Sanh.

Meanwhile, Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Phnom Penh that Hanoi has committed almost an entire division to oppose a major Cambodian offensive expected to start this week north of the capital. The objective of the operation is to recapture more than 1,000 square miles of Cambodia's heartland.

Cambodian troops operating near Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, were attacked Tuesday. First reports said one Cambodian soldier was killed and another wounded, and that 10 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed. Field reports indicated that the fighting and losses may have been far more serious.

American bombers were called in to support the Cambodian troops.

A Cambodian spokesman said that Cambodian forces had recaptured the town of Kirivong, near the South Vietnamese border and 70 miles south of Phnom Penh. The area had been one of the enemy's sanctuaries. Cambodian troops were forced out of the region six months ago.

Questioners Find Marijuana Use Among Student Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of every 10 high school academic leaders contacted in a national survey say they personally use marijuana.

More than 22,000 youths 16 to 18 years old in 48,000 private, public and parochial schools responded to the 70-question survey distributed by Merit Publishing Co., Northfield, Ill.

Recipients, all juniors and seniors, were top scholars and student leaders recommended by the schools, the sponsors said.

When asked whether they use marijuana now, 10 per cent replied yes, 88 per cent said no and 2 per cent didn't respond. In answer to another question, 21 per cent indicated that they would use it if marijuana were legalized.

When asked whether they approve of premarital sexual intercourse, 5 per cent failed to respond, 53 per cent said no and 42 per cent said yes. But 24 per cent of the respondents ducked the question when asked whether they participated in sexual relations. Of those answering, 16 per cent said they had and 60 per cent said they had not.

The sponsors said nine students were elected to write the questions, which range from Vietnam to drug use and national politics to ecology.

Most of the students said that ending the Vietnam war is the nation's No. 1 priority and a whopping 85 per cent said that respect for this country had suffered because of the Vietnam conflict.

On race relations, 68 per cent opposed busing students from either black or white communities, but 84 per cent said they would move into an integrated neighborhood.

On national politics, 75 per cent favored lowering the voting age to 18, and 85 per cent would abolish the electoral college. Forty-six per cent said they would have voted for President Nixon in 1968, 40 per cent for Hubert Humphrey and 5 per cent for George Wallace.

Agnew Says Government Plays Fair

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, launching a final campaign push in Dixie, says the Nixon Southern strategy is simply to play fair with the South.

"That's what it is, and that's all it is," Agnew declared Monday night.

And playing fair, Agnew told some 7,000 cheering Republicans in North Carolina State University's Reynolds Coliseum, "is exactly what we do."

The vice president hammered away at this theme in campaign appearances Monday here and in Greenville, S.C.

He pledged more Southern nominations to the Supreme Court, firm opposition to busing to achieve racial balance in schools and administration support for the textile import quotas so favored by the region's most important industry.

Agnew goes to New York City tonight for what is billed as a nonpolitical and long-planned appearance before the Navy League.

He returns to Georgia and Alabama Wednesday before heading out to the Midwest for the windup of his eight-week campaign tour.

Fifty-two per cent said they felt Nixon is doing a good job as president.

Which Lever And Why

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Because they have searched election campaign trend in the election campaign, and found it wanting, some of our trusted masters of prognosis have discerned a Democratic trend. For myself — and this is my way of sticking my neck out this year — I find only an attitudinal trend that people are having a very difficult time relating to individual candidates. There have been no real issues in the campaign, only the ghosts of issues left over from last spring. Politicians in both parties are perfectly sincere in wanting to liquidate the Vietnam war, and Nixon seems to be doing it in a way that is consonant with honor, so where is the argument there? The economic picture is not as good as it might be, but the Democrats, who have tried rather feebly to exploit regional unemployment, were in office when the inflation began to get out of hand, and are therefore suspect when they raise bread-and-butter issues.

The so-called social issues that everybody talks about involves morals before it involves politics and all our candidates have been falling over each other to proclaim their morality. The bombings, the kidnappings, the hijackings and the random violence that are part of our world scene have everybody in a sober frame of mind. Nobody is campaigning for office or a platform of "off the pigs," or "justice for William Kunstler," or "free speech for Dr. Spock." So the only heat generated by the social issue is the heat expressed by candidates who object to being tarred with their injudicious expressions of bygone days, when they were accusing the police of being Fascists or storm troopers in blue.

Nixon, in his sudden spurt of stumping over wide areas, has judged the popular mood correctly: people everywhere want to be able to live orderly and predictable lives, free of the menace of the dope pusher in the public high school, free of the threat of arson or bombing. But how does Nixon's very commendable preaching help Lenore Romney in Michigan unless a case can be made out that the incumbent Senator Philip Hart is some kind of monster?

How does it enable a person to judge in the Connecticut Senatorial race between Weicker, Dodd and Duffey, all of whom have sincere programs for attacking the drug problem? In states where there are normal two-party races the results could add up overall to a very mixed national pattern. In the states where there are three candidates for the Senate, predictions become even chancier. I would bet almost Harry Byrd will win in Virginia, but an analyst, writing a week or so before the election, would have to be out of his head to say who is going to win in Connecticut or New York.

Let us say that you are voting in Connecticut, and have it firmly fixed in your mind that the Democratic candidate, Joe Duffey, would, on the basis of his past record for way-out liberalism, make an undesirable Senator. Maybe you like Tom Dodd, the independent candidate, because of his foreign policy record (he has invariably been right in judging Soviet motives and behavior). But Lowell Weicker, the Republican, has been a man of fecund ideas involving the improvement of the domestic scene, both inside his state and out. Other things being equal, you would have to balance the importance of world affairs off against the need for a better domestic environment before deciding between Dodd and Weicker. But let us say that the last-minute private polls say that you must vote for Weicker instead of Dodd, or vice versa, to keep Duffey from winning. The whole business becomes a little nerve-racking, and so you go into the booth and press — what lever? Maybe you don't consciously know until you have actually started to move your hand.

In New York State, if you are a Republican with conservative inclinations you would very probably vote for the Conservative Party candidate, Jim Buckley. But if you are a liberal, should you go for the Democrat, Richard Ottinger, or the Republican-Liberal, Charles Goodell? Again, it could be a matter of what the private polls tell you is necessary to head your chief enemy off at the pass.

Personally, I want to see Nixon win. Nixon has been a very gallant spokesman for a decent American position in the world, and he deserves a good supporting cast. He deserves to be rid of Bill Fulbright as the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But, as an analyst, I wouldn't be surprised if Nixon falls by a few short yards to win the Senate. I hope I am wrong, but there it is.

Try and Stop Me

THE BOOKKEEPING methods of some of those fly-by-night corporations who now are selling stock to the unsuspecting public are likened by Accountancy Professionals to a bikini bathing suit: "What they reveal is interesting, but what they conceal is vital!"

Here are two of the many good quotes in Art Linkletter's very funny book, "I Wish I'd Said That":

1. In 1955, while Lyndon Johnson was hospitalized by a heart-attack, a Washington tailor phoned to ask if he should go ahead making two suits L.B.J. had ordered before he was stricken. "Better just finish the dark blue suit for the time being," suggested Johnson. "We can use that no matter what happens."

2. The late Cecil B. DeMille, asked why he had made so many movies based on the Bible, responded, "Why let two thousand years of terrific publicity go to waste?"

PUNSTER PARADE:
Violinist Isaac Stern points out "I leave no tone unturned." Prodded by Bill Alsop on his obvious lack of interest in the female sex, a 7-foot-tall young farm boy alibied, "It's a long swim that has no yearning."

A printer in Camden sends all his posters that are rejected by unsatisfied customers to the RCA recording plant nearby. He believes in the old proverb, "To the victor belongs the spoils."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can a severe emotional upset cause a normal and healthy person to develop chronic colitis? This happened to me and it is hard to believe that it could be true.

Mr. S. R. A., Illinois

Dear Mr. A.: It is accepted in modern medicine that the relationship between the mind and the body is so exact and important that all medical conditions contain both elements. There probably is no illness that does not have either an emotional cause or an emotional over-tone.

There are, however, only a few illnesses that have as definite a relationship between the psyche (the mind) and the soma (the body) as does chronic ulcerative colitis.

Colitis is an inflammation, irritation, or infection of the inner lining of the large intestine. The condition can be mild or can become exceedingly debilitating and play havoc with health and happiness.

Although you do not believe that there is an important emotional cause for your illness, please believe that it can be true. So true, in fact, that many physicians feel that the most intensive treatment for colitis — with antibiotics, cortisone, and other drugs — will not be completely effective unless it is accompanied by psychological support. It is astonishing how often mature and adult people resent and often reject a doctor's suggestion that psychological help may be of value. These same people willingly accept most other forms of medical treatment without question.

Circleville city council was told that an unpleasant odor originating at Container Corporation of America "is a temporary thing that will not last long."

A "no parking" ban during the day was placed in front of Circleville school buildings.

A turn-a-bout was inaugurated for Circleville's Halloween. Rather than police having to chase halloweeners, the lawmen supplied themselves with treats to lure the pranksters. Dean Bushee, manufacturer of Dean's potato chips in Circleville, supplied the city police with his goodies for bait.

A special policeman, hired to protect Pumpkin Show visitors, was arrested as he made a "not too light-fingered" attempt to lift some merchandise from a concession booth.

The J. W. Eshelman and Sons $30,000 addition to their office building on Mill St. Lydia Stout, Third Ave., received a building permit, also, to construct a coal shed. Cost was estimated at $25.

A fire causing an estimated $500 damage swept through the interior of the New Holland Feed and Farm Supply grain elevator. Five fire departments fought the blaze.

A life-like display of a farm created by the junior class of Pickaway Twp. school, in the window of J. C. Penney store, won honors in the annual window-trimming contest of the Pumpkin Show.

The most brilliant chapter on Circleville football history was brought to an abrupt end when the championship Red and Black team suffered its first defeat in four seasons from Columbus St. Charles 26-13.

A report issued of the 1948 crop yields for Pickaway County showed area farmers raised 4,897,000 bushels of corn on 83,000 acres, an average yield of 59 bushels per acre. Wheat produced 1,260,000 bushels an average yield of 21 bushels per acre.

Walter C. Leist son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leist, W. Main St., was awarded the Lamme scholarship worth $450 in mechanical engineering. Leist was a junior at Ohio University, college of mechanical engineering.

Weekly average of unemployed in Circleville was 39 persons.

The United Department Store had its grand opening at 117 W. Main St.

Pickaway County Fair Board office was moved from the county courthouse to the fairgrounds coliseum.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:
Just how wrong can one person be?

As many of your readers will recall I had a letter in the paper a few days ago for the Brooks-Yates School & Workshop. In that letter in part, I made a statement concerning a commercial on TV with John Wayne speaking for the retarded and their various programs and asking "your" support. In this letter I mentioned the fact of John always being the good guy in the movies and all "good" guys as we all know wear the white hats and the "bad" guy always wears "black." Well I would like to eat those words. With a little humor I would like to say, Who says Ted Lewis "our" friend is bad guy? His hat is really "black." But I ask you, how can you judge a fellow by the color of his hat?

"Ted" as he is known to all of us has done the children and adults of the school and workshop a great favor and honor accepting the honorary chairmanship for our drive to obtain the .5 mill operating levy.

As you all know Ted has made it his business to always ask "Is Everybody Happy?"

Won't you be a great person like Ted and help make everybody happy and vote "Yes" for the Brooks-Yates School and Workshop Nov. 3?

Dear Editor:
Last evening, in an attempt to find some relaxing diversion from our "Hurry-up and Wait" existence, I pulled the switch on what is commonly known as the tube and caught the last few scenes of the very adorable, Charlie Brown. It appeared that Linus had spent the night in a pumpkin patch, waiting for the Magic Pumpkin to appear. To the discouragement of the wee folk, the magic one did not appear.

Should the real Charlie Brown be allowed to view the happenings of the past six days from Halfway House, one wonder if he wouldn't be in agreement to some, the magic in the pumpkin is spelled m-o-n-e-y.

I doubt that I shall ever reach an age when I won't enjoy a parade, or the many things the Pumpkin Show has to offer. I shall never be an age when a need or a greed for the almighty dollar will blind me to the injustice of another.

HARRIET B. KAYLOR

Dear Editor:
We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to all who contributed in any way to the tremendous success of the 1970 Circleville Pumpkin Show. Without the complete cooperation of all the citizens of Circleville, it would be utterly impossible to produce this "Greatest Free Show on Earth."

A special thanks goes to the Circleville Police Department for their usual fine handling of the crowds, to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for the assistance given to us and the State Highway Patrol for traffic control in the area. Also the constant vigilance of the Health and Fire Department personnel in maintaining the highest of health standards in the food booths and the excellent precautionary fire inspections to reduce the possibility of problems in this area.

The float builders went all out this year to produce the finest array of floats ever shown in the Circleville Pumpkin Show. The Circleville Herald and radio station WNRE did an outstanding job of covering and reporting the activities of the show and are to be commended.

The Service Department on the nightly clean-up had the area in shape each morning for the days activities and the clean-up of the show area on Sunday was done with the greatest efficiency.

The many National Guard personnel who manned the barricades did so in the very best fashion under the guidance of Chief Lery, the official bomb shooter-offer to start the parades.

We, of the Pumpkin Show Inc., feel that this was the finest Pumpkin Show ever staged in this community and that the hundreds of thousands of visitors to our community went away with a higher regard for Circleville and its people. The tags that our local people wore to offer assistance to out-of-town visitors supplied by the Chamber of Commerce, went a long way towards creating a warm and friendly atmosphere for these visitors.

In 11 more months and 24 days another edition of the "Greatest Free Show on Earth" will hit the streets of Circleville and the Pumpkin Show committee would welcome any suggestions or criticism in writing to the Circleville Pumpkin Show, Box 228, Circleville, Ohio.

NED W. HARDEN,

Dear Editor:

I as well as others attended the open house night on Oct. 13 for the Brooks-Yates School and Sheltered Workshop for the Mentally Retarded. If you didn't attend, you were a real loser.

The children really made good impressions on everybody. In other words, the children wanted each and every one to feel welcome. They were most delightful that night.

If you missed open house that night, you can visit the school any school day. You would be most welcome.

I have a nine-year-old son who attends this school. He as well as the others, are trying to get an education, which they are capable of doing.

Remember to vote yes for Brooks-Yates School and Sheltered Workshop. You will not regret it now or later. Everybody will be doing a group of nice children a special favor.

Dear Editor:
The Circleville Bands and Boosters want to say a sincere thank you to all business firms and residents who responded so favorably to our recent membership campaign.

Our special thanks go also to the Circleville Herald and to radio station WNRE who assisted in so many ways to help all community endeavors. As our music department and bands grow in size and experience, we hope our performances will always exhibit the confidence our community has shown in us.

We can make beautiful music together if we continue to encourage youth in these worthwhile pursuits and if we have our citizens behind us wholeheartedly.

Thank you for your help and interest in our continuing development.

Dear Editor:
This is not a tribute to my father, the former Chief of Police Buggs McCrady — it is a letter to try and let you know my feelings about our town, and how much he loved it and how much I also feel toward it.

My father worked from 5:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. while he was a patrolman and was on call 24 hours a day. His pay was small, his duties were many. He never questioned how long the hours were nor how small the pay was, because he loved the people and the town.

He later was appointed Chief of Police. This job meant dawn to dawn with a listed telephone number because he took an oath to serve the people 24 hours a day.

Crime hasn't changed so much since the day my father retired in 1953. You see, when he started there were gangsters with machine guns and moonshiners with shot guns that he faced many many times. Today we have riots and population explosion, but men have been added to the force and cars added to help the problem.

I rented my yard to people working on and for the betterment of the Pumpkin Show. I have a cement driveway in the back of my home. One of the persons had taken the truck out to load more stock in the stand on W. Main St. While he was gone, a car driven by a county man parked and the man that had paid for his space was unable to move his truck back into the yard.

I called the sheriff and had the license number put on his automatic machine and found out it was a rental from a local garage.

I called the man and asked if he announced over the loud speaker that he move the car. None of this worked. I saw an officer and he told me to call a wrecker and have it towed away and gave me a number to call. But there was no answer. I didn't know what to do so I called the police station and asked Mr. Stevens to have an officer talk to me over the phone and put a Sergeant on the phone.

The Sergeant said he'd have an officer come down. In the meantime, a riot of sorts broke out. I waited 55 minutes — no officer. Now bear with me there were officers there along with the desk man who could have called and said we have an emergency and will be there as soon as possible.

I went to the station and saw another man who is also a Sergeant, on another trick working overtime. When I showed him a parking permit, he said he had never seen such a slip even though they had been handed out for weeks on all tricks to people.

About this time the riot gang was hauled in with unteamed policemen with at least five policemen sitting in the office. Not one officer offered to help me out of the way. Four deputy sheriffs came in and I got in the middle of them and got out of the office.

I waited all day Sunday for one of the Sergeants or the Chief of Police to call me and tell me that they were sorry that they had left me to get out of the office alone or without help or to get me into the back room. Being a policeman means more than "arrest" gun, a blue suit and a badge. All I needed was a call to a wrecker from the Police Station to clear my drive. The man, had he asked permission, could have parked had he left his keys. We let many do this as a favor to them.

I was for the Police getting higher pay, shorter hours and paid hospitalization but I'm a taxpayer and I in return expect respect along with protection which I did not receive Saturday night in the Police Station.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — An entire generation of Americans, thousands of professors included, owes its basic knowledge of economics to Dr. Paul Samuelson, recipient of the 1970 Nobel Prize in economics.

Samuelson's massive "Foundations of Economic Analysis" was required reading in almost every college economics course and, in fact, was the only textbook in many of them. It covered everything.

That this enormously successful book, a classic which Samuelson updates every few years, was hardly the basis for his selection is a testament to the breadth of his work.

No one area of Samuelson's output, in fact, can be detached from the mass of his production. His writings and research covers the field generally and specifically: overall theory, welfare economics, price theory, international trade.

And while he has demonstrated an ability to write for the masses, as evidenced by a popular magazine column, the professor's greatest strengths are in the area of highly mathematical analysis.

Samuelson is considered a Keynesian, meaning that much of his thinking appears to have been influenced by the late John Maynard Keynes, a British economist who believed in governmental involvement in order to moderate the business cycle.

Keynes' approach was fiscal. He felt that government spending could be used to regulate the up-down cycles that have appeared regularly in industrial economies. He didn't fear budget deficits, and even suggested they might be used to "spend" a lagging economy into health.

Many economists today consider Samuelson the foremost academic interpreter and systematizer of Keynes' theories, which therefore pits him, at least in a popular sense, against Prof. Milton Friedman and the monetarists.

Friedman, who reportedly also was considered for the prize, believes that the economy is essentially stable if not interfered with by the federal government. A steady growth in money supply is viewed as sufficient fuel.

According to Boyle

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — What causes sore muscles; headaches, a general feeling of malaise and a firm conviction that things will be even worse tomorrow — symptoms that appear regularly every three years?

It's not some dread tropical disease — it's a paint job on an apartment. And though it isn't an illness recognized by any medical authority, the recovery period is long and painful.

So is the preparation. It's a two-day operation to transform our abode into a setting untouched by human fingerprints, and the logistics must be charted accordingly.

Since I can get more meals in a restaurant that way, I always advocate doing the kitchen first, thus putting it out of commission for an extra day. A logical partner is the bathroom, and we throw in a couple of bedrooms for good measure. What we really should do is throw out the entire contents of those bedrooms.

Instead we empty all the closets, taking down shoe racks, tie holder and old empty boxes that might make it through one more Christmas, and remove pictures, lamps, mirrors and other impediments from the walls.

The clothes get draped gracefully across the dining room chairs and the rest of the stuff goes into boxes that optimistically seek a resting place under the table among sister and brother boxes filled with junk from the kitchen cabinets.

The table itself is covered with dishes, glasses, toasters, coffee pots, pans, blender and everything else that needs a temporary home away from home. Leaning against the walls at various precarious angles are ironing board, drying rack, vacuum cleaner, window screens and any number of long-handled objects that are fugitives from the broom closet.

Then all the furniture must be arranged in intimate little groupings in the center of the rooms to be painted. My husband supplies the brawn for this enterprise. I supply the brains, deciding which piece looks better atop the bed — the dresser, the bookcase or the night table.

Once the first day's arduous work has been completed, all these things must be returned to their place of origin. Then the living room and the dining room and a few odd little alcoves and halls must be dismantled and the obstacle course through the house replotted.

We've pretty well solved the second-day problem this time though. Our daughter is away at college so we just stacked everything in her newly painted room, firmly closed the door and hope one of her classmates will invite her home for Thanksgiving. That way we have until Christmas to get things straightened out.

Again, it could be a matter of what the private polls tell you is necessary to head your chief enemy off at the pass.

Personally, I want to see Nixon men win. Nixon has been a very gallant spokesman for a decent American position in the world, and he deserves a good supporting cast. He deserves to be rid of Bill Fulbright as the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But, as an analyst, I wouldn't be surprised if Nixon falls by a few short yards to win the Senate. I hope I am wrong, but there it is.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — An entire generation of Americans, thousands of professors included, owes its basic knowledge of economics to Dr. Paul Samuelson, recipient of the 1970 Nobel Prize in economics.

Samuelson's massive "Foundations of Economic Analysis" was required reading in almost every college economics course and, in fact, was the only textbook in many of them. It covered everything.

That this enormously successful book, a classic which Samuelson updates every few years, was hardly the basis for his selection is a testament to the breadth of his work.

In politics, Keynesians have usually been associated with Democrats and monetarists with the Republican party. Friedman, in fact, was the economic adviser to Sen. Barry Goldwater and still has entree to Washington.

To some degree, however, the differences may be growing less stark as they are practiced. Each has had its failures, and economic practitioners today tend to be less doctrinaire than a decade ago.

In the Nixon administration, for example, there may be detected some of each school and many economists in academia, business and government feel free to borrow from either school and redefine the ideas to fit the situation.

Nevertheless, many observers who tend to view economics with a political connotation will find in Samuelson's award a victory for the notion that government involvement is necessary in modern industrial economies.

New York (AP) — What causes sore muscles; headaches, a general feeling of malaise and a firm conviction that things will be even worse tomorrow — symptoms that appear regularly every three years?

It's not some dread tropical disease — it's a paint job on an apartment. And though it isn't an illness recognized by any medical authority, the recovery period is long and painful.

So is the preparation.

It's a two-day operation to transform our abode into a setting untouched by human fingerprints, and the logistics must be charted accordingly.

Since I can get more meals in a restaurant that way, I always advocate doing the kitchen first, thus putting it out of commission for an extra day. A logical partner is the bathroom, and we throw in a couple of bedrooms for good measure. What we really should do is throw out the entire contents of those bedrooms.

Instead we empty all the closets, taking down shoe racks, the holder and old empty boxes that might make it through one more Christmas, and remove pictures, lamps, mirrors and other impediments from the walls.

The clothes get draped gracefully across the dining room chairs and the rest of the stuff goes into boxes that optimistically seek a resting place under the table among sister and brother boxes filled with junk from the kitchen cabinets.

The table itself is covered with dishes, glasses, toasters, coffee pots, pans, blender and everything else that needs a temporary home away from home. Leaning against the walls at various precarious angles are ironing board, drying rack, vacuum cleaner, window screens and any number of long-handled objects that are fugitives from the broom closet.

Then all the furniture must be arranged in intimate little groupings in the center of the rooms to be painted. My husband supplies the brawn for this enterprise. I supply the brains, deciding which piece looks better atop the bed — the dresser, the bookcase or the night table.

Once the first day's art work has been completed, all these things must be returned to their place of origin. Then the living room and the dining room and a few odd little alcoves and halls must be dismantled and the obstacle course through the house replotted.

We've pretty well solved the second-day problem this time though. Our daughter is away at college so we just stacked everything in her newly painted room, firmly closed the door and hope one of her classmates will invite her home for Thanksgiving. That way we have until Christmas to get things straightened out.

Try and Stop Me

THE BOOKKEEPING methods of some of those fly-by-night corporations who now are selling stock to the unsuspecting public are likened by Accountancy Publications to bikini bathing suits: "What they reveal is interesting, but what they conceal is vital!"

Here are two of the many good quotes in Art Linkletter's very funny book, "I Wish I'd Said That":

1. In 1955, while Lyndon Johnson was hospitalized by a heart-attack, a Washington reporter phoned to ask if he should go ahead making two suits L.B.J. had ordered before he was stricken. "Better just finish the dark blue suit for the time being," suggested Johnson. "We can use that no matter what happens."

2. The late Cecil B. DeMille, asked why he had made so many movies based on the Bible, responded, "Why let two thousand years of terrific publicity go to waste?"

PUNSTER PARADE:
Violinist Isaac Stern points out "I leave no tone unSterned." Prodded by Bill Alsop on his obvious lack of interest in the female sex, a 7-foot-tall young farm boy alibied, "It's a long swain that has no yearning."

A printer in Camden sends all his posters that are rejected by unsatisfied customers to the RCA recording plant nearby. He believes in the old proverb, "To the Victor belongs the spoils."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can a severe emotional upset cause a normal and healthy person to develop chronic colitis? This happened to me and it is hard to believe that it could be true.

Mr. S. R. A., Illinois
Dear Mr. A.: It is accepted in modern medicine that the relationship between the mind and the body is so exact and important that all medical conditions contain both elements. There probably is no illness that does not have either an emotional cause or an emotional over-tone.

There are, however, only a few illnesses that have a definite relationship between the psyche (the mind) and the soma (the body) as does chronic ulcerative colitis.

Colitis is an inflammation, irritation, or infection of the inner lining of the large intestine. The condition can be mild or can become exceedingly debilitating and play havoc with health and happiness.

Although you do not believe that there is an important emotional cause for your illness, please believe that it can be true. So true, in fact, that many physicians feel that the most intensive treatment for colitis — with antibiotics, cortisone, and other drugs — will not be completely effective unless it is accompanied by psychological support. It is astonishing how often mature and adult people resent and often reject a doctor's suggestion that psychological help may be of value. These same people willingly accept most other forms of medical treatment without question.

OCTOBER, 1950
20 YEARS AGO
Circleville city council was told that an unpleasant odor originating at Container Corporation of America "is a temporary thing that will not last long."

A "no parking" ban during the day was placed in front of Circleville school buildings.

A turn-about was inaugurated for Circleville's Halloween. Rather than police having to chase halloweeners, the lawmen supplied themselves with treats to lure the pranksters. Dean Bushee, manufacturer of Dean's potato chips in Circleville, supplied the city police with his goodies for bait.

A special policeman, hired to protect Pumpkin Show visitors, was arrested as he made a "not too light-fingered" attempt to lift some merchandise from a concession booth.

The J. W. Eshelman and Sons $30,000 addition to their office building on Mill St. Lydia Stout, Third Ave., received a building permit, also, to construct a coal shed. Cost was estimated at $25.

A fire causing an estimated $500 damage swept through the interior of the New Holland Feed and Farm Supply grain elevator. Five fire departments fought the blaze.

A life-like display of a farm created by the junior class of Pickaway Twp. school, in the window of J. C. Penney store, won honors in the annual window-trimming contest of the Pumpkin Show.

The most brilliant chapter on Circleville football history was brought to an abrupt end when the championship Red and Black team suffered its first defeat in four seasons from Columbus St. Charles 26-13.

A report issued of the 1948 crop yields for Pickaway County showed area farmers raised 4,897,000 bushels of corn on 83,000 acres, an average yield of 59 bushels per acre. Wheat produced 1,260,000 bushels an average yield of 21 bushels per acre.

Walter C. Leist son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leist, W. Main St., was awarded the Lamme scholarship worth $450 in mechanical engineering. Leist was a junior at Ohio University, college of mechanical engineering.

Weekly average of unemployed in Circleville was 39 persons.

The United Department Store had its grand opening at 117 W. Main St.

Pickaway County Fair Board office was moved from the county courthouse to the fairgrounds coliseum.

Dear Editor:
Just how wrong can one person be?

As many of your readers will recall I had a letter in the paper a few days ago for the Brooks-Yates School Workshop. In that letter in part, I made a statement concerning a commercial on TV with John Wayne speaking for the retarded and their various programs and asking "your" support. In this letter I mentioned the fact of John always being the good guy in the movies and all "good" guys as we all know wear the white hats and the "bad" guy always wears "black." Well I would like to eat those words. With a little humor I would like to say, Who says Ted Lewis "our" friend is bad guy? His hat is really "black." But I ask you, how can you judge a fellow by the color of his hat?

"Ted" as he is known to all of us has done the children and adults of the school and workshop a great favor and honor accepting the honorary chairmanship for our drive to obtain the .5 mill operating levy.

As you all know Ted has made it his business to always ask "Is Everybody Happy?"

Won't you be a great person like Ted and help make everybody happy and vote "Yes" for the Brooks-Yates School and Workshop Nov. 37 MYRNA SINIFF 385 Sunnyview Drive

Dear Editor:
Last evening, in an attempt to find some relaxing diversion from our "Hurry-up and Wait" existence, I pulled the switch on what is commonly known as the tube and caught the last few scenes of the very adorable, Charlie Brown. It appeared that Linus had spent the night in a pumpkin patch, waiting for the Magic Pumpkin to appear. To the discouragement of the wee folk, the magic one did not appear.

Should the real Charlie Brown be allowed to view the happenings of the past six days from Halfway House, one wonder if he wouldn't be in agreement to some, the magic in the pumpkin is spelled m-o-n-e-y.

I doubt that I shall ever reach an age when I won't enjoy a parade, or the many things the Pumpkin Show has to offer. I shall never be an age when a need or a greed for the almighty dollar will blind me to the injustice of another.

Dear Editor:
We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to all who contributed in any way to the tremendous success of the 1970 Circleville Pumpkin Show. Without the complete cooperation of all the citizens of Circleville, it would be utterly impossible to produce this "Greatest Free Show on Earth."

A special thanks goes to the Circleville Police Department for their usual fine handling of the crowds, to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for the assistance given to us and the State Highway Patrol for traffic control in the area. Also the constant vigilance of the Health and Fire Department personnel in maintaining the highest of health standards in the food booths and the excellent precautionary fire inspections to reduce the possibility of problems in this area.

The float builders went all out this year to produce the finest array of floats ever shown in the Circleville Pumpkin Show. The Circleville Herald and radio station WNRE did an outstanding job of covering and reporting the activities of the show and are to be commended.

The Service Department on the nightly cleanup had the area in shape each morning for the days activities and the cleanup of the show area on Sunday was done with the greatest efficiency.

The many National Guard personnel who manned the barricades did so in the very best fashion under the guidance of Chet Iery, the official bomb shooter-offer to start the parades.

We, of the Pumpkin Show Inc., feel that this was the finest Pumpkin Show ever staged in this community and that the hundreds of thousands of visitors to our community went away with a higher regard for Circleville and its people. The tags that our local people wore to offer assistance to out-of-town visitors supplied by the Chamber of Commerce, went a long way towards creating a warm and friendly atmosphere for these visitors.

In 11 more months and 24 days another edition of the "Greatest Free Show on Earth" will hit the streets of Circleville and the Pumpkin Show committee would welcome any suggestions or criticism in writing to the Circleville Pumpkin Show, Box 228, Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Editor:
I as well as others attended the open house night on Oct. 13 for the Brooks-Yates School and Sheltered Workshop for the Mentally Retarded. If you didn't attend, you were a real loser.

The children really made good impressions on everybody. In other words, the children wanted each and every one to feel welcome. They were most delightful that night.

If you missed open house that night, you can visit the school any school day. You would be most welcome.

I have a nine-year-old son who attends this school. He as well as the others, are trying to get an education, which they are capable of doing.

Remember to vote yes for Brooks-Yates School and Sheltered Workshop. You will not regret it now or later. Everybody will be doing a group of nice children a special favor.

The Circleville Bands and Boosters want to say a sincere thank you to all business firms and residents who responded so favorably to our recent membership campaign.

Our special thanks go also to the Circleville Herald and to radio station WNRE who assisted in so many ways to help all community endeavors. As our music department and bands grow in size and experience, we hope our performances will always exhibit the confidence our community has shown in us.

We can make beautiful music together if we continue to encourage youth in these worthwhile pursuits and if we have our citizens behind us wholeheartedly.

Thank you for your help and interest in our continuing development.

Dear Editor:
This is not a tribute to my father, the former Chief of Police Buggs McCrady — it is a letter to try and let you know my feelings about our town, and how much he loved it and how much I also feel toward it.

My father worked from 5:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. while he was a patrolman and was on call 24 hours a day. His pay was small, his duties were many. He never questioned how long the hours were nor how small the pay was, because he loved the people and the town.

He later was appointed Chief of Police. This job meant dawn to dawn with a listed telephone number because he took an oath to serve the people 24 hours a day.

Crime hasn't changed so much since the day my father retired in 1953. You see, when he started there were gangsters with machine guns and moonshiners with shot guns that he faced many many times. Today we have riots and population explosion, but men have been added to the force and cars added to help the problem.

I rented my yard to people working on and for the betterment of the Pumpkin Show, I have a cement driveway in the back of my home. One of the persons had taken the truck out to load more stock in the stand on W. Main St. While he was gone, a car driven by a county man parked and the man that had paid for his space was unable to move his truck back into the yard.

I called the sheriff and had the license number put on his automatic machine and found out it was a rental from a local garage.

I called the man and asked if he announced over the loud speaker that he move the car. None of this worked. I saw an officer and he told me to call a wrecker and have it towed away and gave me a number to call. But there was no answer. I didn't know what to do so I called the police station and asked Mr. Stevens to have an officer talk to me over the phone and put a Sergeant on the phone.

The Sergeant said he'd have an officer come down. In the meantime, a riot of sorts broke out. I waited 55 minutes — no officer. Now bear with me there were officers there along with the desk man who could have called and said we have an emergency and will be there as soon as possible.

I went to the station and saw another man who is also a Sergeant, on another trick working overtime. When I showed him a parking permit, he said he had never seen such a slip even though they had been handed out for weeks on all tricks to people.

About this time the riot gang was hauled in with unteeth policemen with at least five policemen sitting in the office. Not one officer offered to help me out of the way. Four deputy sheriffs came in and I got in the middle of them and got out of the office.

I waited all day Sunday for one of the Sergeants or the Chief of Police to call me and tell me that they were sorry that they had left me to get out of the office alone or without help or to get me into the back room. Being a policeman means more than "arrest" gun, a blue suit and a badge. All I needed was a call to a wrecker from the Police Station to clear my drive. The man, had he asked permission, could have parked had he left his keys. We let many do this as a favor to them.

I was for the Police getting higher pay, shorter hours and paid hospitalization but I'm a taxpayer and I in return expect respect along with protection which I did not receive Saturday night in the Police Station.

South Viet Commander Sees Deeper Push Into Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — The commander of the new South Vietnamese offensive said Tuesday that his forces will push deeper into Cambodia to try to force the North Vietnamese to fight.

Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri also said North Vietnamese troops face a whole "new situation" in both Cambodia and South Vietnam and that they are in a bad way militarily in both countries.

"I am confident," Tri said, "that in the near future they accept some political solution."

Tri spoke to two newsmen at his headquarters in nearby Bien Hoa following his return from the battlefield in Cambodia. His 6,000-man task force had just recaptured the wrecked, deserted town of Snuol, in the Fish Hook region 90 miles north of Saigon. The task force met only light resistance in taking Snuol Monday, and Tri said his forces had moved heavy artillery into the town. He indicated his troops would push westward, for at least 10 miles and possibly to Kompong Cham, 65 miles west of Snuol.

"Our objective is to force the enemy to react and to accept the challenge of our combat units," said the general, who gained considerable prominence for the aggressive showing of his troops in Cambodia last May and June. He is the military commander for South Vietnam's 3rd Corps area, made up of Saigon and the 11 provinces around it.

NBC apparently is determined to give it a full season to catch on. It is improving and deserves a second look.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Another salute to Halloween came along Tuesday night with ABC's creepy thriller, "The House That Wouldn't Die" in its "Movie of the Week" series. It was full of doors opening by themselves, ladies screaming during seances and the wind howling.

But the real chiller of the evening was a segment of CBS's news program, "60 Minutes." It was an account of how, to quote narrator Mike Wallace, "the United States during the Red scare of the 1950s handed China much of her know-how to develop her nuclear capacity."

The report was taken, with credit, from the book "The China Cloud" by Sam Summerlin and William L. Ryan of The Associated Press. Wallace told how the United States encouraged some of the most brilliant Chinese nuclear scientists studying and working in the country to leave, most of them to return to China.

Ninety-six scientists trained in U.S. universities were in the forefront of Chinese nuclear development.

Accompanying this report was some color propaganda film showing China's first three nuclear tests.

Another segment of special interest was an interview by Harry Reasoner with Leila Khaled, the 26-year-old Palestinian guerrilla captured after a gun fight on an El Al airliner she attempted to hijack.

Miss Khaled, a handsome and intense woman, spoke boldly of her involvement in two hijackings—earlier she diverted an Athens-bound TWA plane to Damascus. She explained she was "doing my duty."

She said that in 1948, when she was 4, her family had been forced at gunpoint to leave their home in Haifa, and fled to Lebanon. She agreed, in response to a question, that she was a member of a Marxist-Leninist movement and predicted that the struggle for the restoration of Palestine would go on for "20 or 30 years."

The ABC time-killer earlier in the evening was notable only for the presence of Barbara Stanwyck playing a woman who had inherited a 200-year-old haunted house. It was unworthy of her acting talent, but she did help make it a diverting 90 minutes.

Don Knotts on NBC later turned up in a weekly show that was several cuts above average.

The comedian was mixed up in a funny running gag about pickpockets. With guest Chuck Connors he rocked on a front porch and talked about girls—a sketch he should have saved until Andy Griffith was along. He was very funny as a TV weatherman whose forecast had not arrived by broadcast time.

"The Don Knotts Show" has not done well in the ratings, but

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Another saint to Halloween came along Tuesday night with ABC's creepy thriller, "The House That Wouldn't Die" in its "Movie of the Week" series. It was full of doors opening by themselves, ladies screaming during seances and the wind howling.

But the real chiller of the evening was a segment of CBS's news program, "60 Minutes." It was an account of how, to quote narrator Mike Wallace, "the United States during the Red scare of the 1950s handed China much of her know-how to develop her nuclear capacity."

The report was taken, with credit, from the book "The China Cloud" by Sam Summerlin and William L. Ryan of The Associated Press. Wallace told how the United States encouraged some of the most brilliant Chinese nuclear scientists studying and working in the country to leave, most of them to return to China.

Ninety-six scientists trained in U.S. universities were in the forefront of Chinese nuclear development.

Accompanying this report was some color propaganda film showing China's first three nuclear tests.

Another segment of special interest was an interview by Harry Reasoner with Leila Khaled, the 26-year-old Palestinian guerrilla captured after a gun fight on an El Al airliner she attempted to hijack.

Miss Khaled, a handsome and intense woman, spoke boldly of her involvement in two hijackings—earlier she diverted an Athens-bound TWA plane to Damascus. She explained she was "doing my duty."

She said that in 1948, when she was 4, her family had been forced at gunpoint to leave their home in Haifa, and fled to Lebanon. She agreed, in response to a question, that she was a member of a Marxist-Leninist movement and predicted that the struggle for the restoration of Palestine would go on for "20 or 30 years."

The ABC time-killer earlier in the evening was notable only for the presence of Barbara Stanwyck playing a woman who had inherited a 200-year-old haunted house. It was unworthy of her acting talent, but she did help make it a diverting 90 minutes.

Don Knotts on NBC later turned up in a weekly show that was several cuts above average. The comedian was mixed up in a funny running gag about pickpockets. With guest Chuck Connors he rocked on a front porch and talked about girls—a sketch he should have saved until Andy Griffith was along. He was very funny as a TV weatherman whose forecast had not arrived by broadcast time.

"The Don Knotts Show" has not done well in the ratings, but

South Viet Commander Sees Deeper Push Into Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — The commander of the new South Vietnamese offensive said Tuesday that his forces will push deeper into Cambodia to try to force the North Vietnamese to fight.

Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri also said North Vietnamese troops face a whole "new situation" in both Cambodia and South Vietnam and that they are in a bad way militarily in both countries.

"I am confident," Tri said, "that in the near future they accept some political solution."

Tri spoke to two newsmen at his headquarters in nearby Bien Hoa following his return from the battlefield in Cambodia. His 6,000-man task force had just recaptured the wrecked, deserted town of Snuol, in the Fish Hook region 90 miles north of Saigon.

The task force met only light resistance in taking Snuol Monday, and Tri said his forces had moved heavy artillery into the town. He indicated his troops would push westward, for at least 10 miles and possibly to Kompong Cham, 65 miles west of Snuol.

"Our objective is to force the enemy to react and to accept the challenge of our combat units," said the general, who gained considerable prominence for the aggressive showing of his troops in Cambodia last May and June. He is the military commander for South Vietnam's 3rd Corps area, made up of Saigon and the 11 provinces around it.

NBC apparently is determined to give it a full season to catch on. It is improving and deserves a second look.

Tri said there are no restrictions on the extent of South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia and that his troops can "go anywhere in Cambodia."

"When we feel the North Vietnamese have fled," he said, "then we'll come back to Vietnam."

Tri said that in the last two months, lack of supplies, arms and replacements have forced the North Vietnamese in South Vietnam to break up most of their main force units and attach the troops to guerrilla units.

"How can North Vietnamese soldiers, with different accents and traditions, claim they are guerrillas?" he added. "They cannot do so. They will not get support from the local population."

Foot Comfort Comes from Blocks

BLOCKS

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

A Good Deed Goes Without Paying

DEAR ABBY: Something has been on my mind a while. Last Saturday, Karen, my 8-year-old daughter, and I were doing the weekly grocery shopping. I have a large family and we are on a tight budget. While I was trying to figure out how I could work in a watermelon that wasn't on my budget, Karen left my side. Then I saw her helping an elderly lady who seemed to be having trouble standing up. I went to help Karen when I realized the old lady was crippled. She said she felt dizzy and weak, but she thought she could make it home—a block away.

We put her in my car and I drove her to what appeared to be an old convalescent home. We helped her out of the car and rang the bell and someone came to let her in. Then the old lady opened her purse and took out a dollar and handed it to Karen. Karen looked at me for a signal to refuse it or accept it. I thought about the watermelon and nodded "yes," take it.

Now I am sorry. I should have nodded "no," and told Karen to never accept money for doing a good deed. Am I FOOLISH TO LET THIS BOTHER ME?

SORRY
DEAR SORRY: No. It's still not too late to tell Karen that you now regret letting her accept the money. Be honest. Tell her you thought about the watermelon. Children respect honesty, but too few parents are big enough to admit to their children that they are less than perfect—and also make mistakes. You know where the lady lives. Perhaps Karen would like to return the dollar.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you so much for a good laugh. I

Dirt Blanket Won't Move From Boston

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — A research agency that has been taking air samples over the East Coast since 1967 has discovered a fixed blanket of dirt particles hanging over Boston. The forces that keep it intact defy wind and rain, according to the study.

Results of research were made public today by the Charles D. Sias Laboratories of Brookline.

The study took spot samples of air over Boston three times a day, five times a week beginning in 1967. Color photographs of the Boston skyline were used to show smog and cloud formations. Wind direction, force, humidity and barometric pressure were also recorded.

By 1969, the research team suspected some unusual formation in the atmosphere. Scrutiny showed that enough material was being discharged into the air to form a large mass of small inert particles.

The mass is so dense, said researcher William A. Curby, that it is unaffected by the rain and is seldom broken up or dispersed. The cohesiveness comes from forces greater than the earth's gravity, Curby said.

Wind from the east has always been considered a cleansing agent in Boston, bringing in cool, clean air from over the ocean. The study shows it also brings back the pollutant dirt particles.

It rarely moves more than a few miles off shore. The debris concentration is now so dense it shows signs of altering major weather patterns to create "high and low bursts," very good weather for a number of days followed by several days of bad weather.

U.S. College Enrollment Increases To 8.3 Million

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A national study shows enrollment at colleges has increased 4 percent over 1969 to 8.3 million this year based on estimates from 564 colleges compiled by Dr. Garland G. Parker, provost of the University of Cincinnati.

The survey, said Garland, indicated there were 2.1 million freshmen, an increase of 4 percent and "the key to the enrollment puzzle."

Parker, an authority on college enrollments, will publish his annual enrollment study for the educational journal "School and Society" in December.

"Despite much unrest and violence on many campuses last year, tighter budgets, higher costs, and the fact that there only was a modest increase in persons reaching college age this year, U.S. colleges and universities continued to receive a high vote of confidence from scholars and citizens as students enrolled again in record numbers," said Parker.

The names of the colleges reporting were not named, only designated as state universities and private institutions.

He said his estimates were based on percentages of increases from the reporting colleges.

The annual study was started at the University of Cincinnati in 1919 by former President Raymond E. Walters, who died this week. He retired in the mid-1950's.

"In the face of increasing un-specialists in many fields, and a slowdown in the national economy, the conviction appears to remain on the part of the great majority of high school graduates that collegiate training is essential to success and job security," Parker said.

Despite the increases indicated in colleges, Parker said enrollments are "flattening out compared to the late 1960's."

He predicted continued slight increases in the 1970's "but with over eight million already on college campuses, even slender increases will be massive in their cumulative effect."

Parker added: "In the 1970's the nation is being confronted with many awesome challenges, such as the urban crisis, crime, poverty, race, pollution and population. It is a sobering thought to observe that if significant progress is not made by the leaders and citizens of this country in this decade on solutions of the great problems they face, it may be too late."

3 Amendments To Face Ohio Voters Nov. 3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three proposed constitutional amendments will be decided by Ohio voters Nov. 3. All require a majority affirmative vote for passage.

Amendment No. 1, as it appears on the official election ballot, proposes the Ohio General Assembly be empowered to grant tax exemptions to Ohio residents 65 years of age and older.

If accepted by voters, the amendment will also authorize the legislature to set income and other requirements as conditions for a tax reduction.

Amendment No. 2 proposes that voter eligibility requirements for the state be relaxed. State law currently requires a one-year period of residence in Ohio before citizens may vote in state elections.

If approved, the amendment would drop the residency requirement to six months and bring state statutes into compliance with federal regulations for voters in national elections.

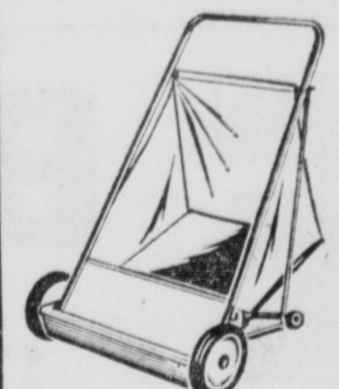

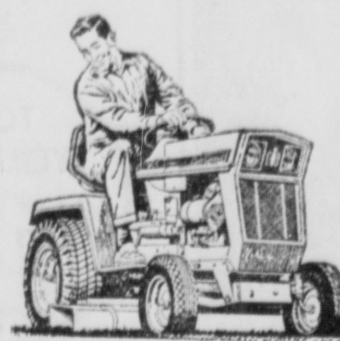

The third amendment calls for municipal charters to be announced to the community in the form of a newspaper advertisement.

Ohio law now requires that such amendments be presented to the public by way of individual mailings. Either form of announcement would be valid under the new constitutional provision.

If passed, each of the new provisions would become effective Jan. 1, 1971.

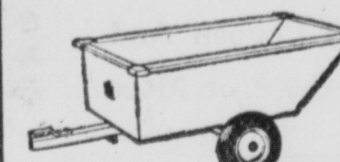

Since World War II, some 300,000 illicit housing units have sprung up in Rome without city authorization or zoning.

Twins Die In Surgery

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Siamese twins born in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 1 died Tuesday in Texas Children's Hospital during an attempt to separate them.

Names of the girls, who were flown here Oct. 16, and their parents were not revealed.

"They were joined at the heart and extensively at the liver," said a hospital spokesman, who announced they died during a 2½-hour operation.

"The surgery also revealed congenital heart defects," he said. "Both had lost weight rather steadily since birth and the attempt to separate them was only a last resort."

The spokesman said doctors had hoped to wait until the twins gained more weight, "but their conditions deteriorated and they had to try something right away."

DEAR GOD, what I wouldn't give to have such an "earth-shaking" problem! Not only must I face this thing tomorrow, but I must face it alone. My husband died last year.

Te'l your readers, Abby, that they don't know when they are well off. Thank you. God love you.

A READER
DEAR READER: And God love you, too. Please let me hear from you when your ordeal is over.

DEAR ABBY: So you think animals will live happy, healthy lives after their masters are gone, do you? Well, that shows you how much you know. Humans can look after themselves. Animals cannot!

I've seen "animal lovers" profess love for their pets and then let them run all over the neighborhood until some speed demon kills them.

I have 22 dogs and at my death every one of these beautiful animals will be put to sleep and buried in the pet cemetery. DEAR ABBY: About cats: A cat is loyal to the person who feeds him. If a cat is mistreated, he will take off and look for a better home. Not true of dogs. Dogs will take all kinds of abuse and hang around forever.

I once had a pet cat which I raised from a kitten. When I went into the Army I tearfully gave my cat to a friend to keep, and was told not to be surprised if she died of a broken heart in my absence. Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A Good Deed Goes Without Paying

DEAR ABBY: Something has been on my mind a whole week. Last Saturday, Karen, my 8-year-old daughter, and I were doing the weekly grocery shopping. I have a large family and we are on a tight budget. While I was trying to figure out how I could work in a watermelon that wasn't on my budget, Karen left my side. Then I saw her helping an elderly lady who seemed to be having trouble standing up. I went to help Karen when I realized the old lady was crippled. She said she felt dizzy and weak, but she thought she could make it home—a block away.

We put her in my car and I drove her to what appeared to be an old convalescent home. We helped her out of the car and rang the bell and someone came to let her in. Then the old lady opened her purse and took out a dollar and handed it to Karen. Karen looked at me for a signal to refuse it or accept it. I thought about the watermelon and nodded "yes," take it.

Now I am sorry. I should have nodded "no," and told Karen to never accept money for doing a good deed. Am I FOOLISH TO LET THIS BOTHER ME?

SORRY
DEAR SORRY: No, it's still not too late to tell Karen that you now regret letting her accept the money. Be honest. Tell her you thought about the watermelon. Children respect honesty, but too few parents are big enough to admit to their children that they are less than perfect—and also make mistakes. You know where the lady lives. Perhaps Karen would like to return the dollar.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you so much for a good laugh. I

Dirt Blanket Won't Move From Boston

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — A research agency that has been taking air samples over the East Coast since 1967 has discovered a fixed blanket of dirt particles hanging over Boston. The forces that keep it intact defy wind and rain, according to the study.

Results of research were made public today by the Charles D. Sias Laboratories of Brookline.

The study took spot samples of air over Boston three times a day, five times a week beginning in 1967. Color photographs of the Boston skyline were used to show smog and cloud formations. Wind direction, force, humidity and barometric pressure were also recorded.

By 1969, the research team suspected some unusual formation in the atmosphere. Scrutiny showed that enough material was being discharged into the air to form a large mass of small inert particles.

The mass is so dense, said researcher William A. Curby, that it is unaffected by the rain and is seldom broken up or dispersed. The cohesiveness comes from forces greater than the earth's gravity, Curby said.

Wind from the east has always been considered a cleansing agent in Boston, bringing in cool, clean air from over the ocean. The study shows it also brings back the pollutant dirt particles.

It rarely moves more than a few miles off shore. The debris concentration is now so dense it shows signs of altering major weather patterns to create "high and low bursts," very good weather for a number of days followed by several days of bad weather.

thought for sure my laughing days were over, for tomorrow morning I go into the hospital to have my left breast removed. I have cancer.

What made me laugh? That letter from the cat lover who feared that if she did not outlive her precious cat, it would die of a broken heart, so she wanted to have the cat "gently put to sleep" and buried with her. You replied, "Let nature decide. The cat may miraculously survive the loss and have a ball." You are so right, Abby.

Dear God, what I wouldn't give to have such an "earth-shaking" problem! Not only must I face this thing tomorrow, but I must face it alone. My husband died last year.

Tell your readers, Abby, that they don't know when they are well off. Thank you. God love you.

A READER
DEAR READER: And God love you, too. Please let me hear from you when your ordeal is over.

DEAR ABBY: So you think animals will live happy, healthy lives after their masters are gone, do you? Well, that shows you how much you know. Humans can look after themselves. Animals cannot!

I've seen "animal lovers" profess love for their pets and then let them run all over the neighborhood until some speed demon kills them.

I have 22 dogs and at my death every one of these beautiful animals will be put to sleep and buried in the pet cemetery.

U.S. College Enrollment Increases To 8.3 Million

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A national study shows enrollment at colleges has increased 4 per cent over 1969 to 8.3 million this year based on estimates from 564 colleges compiled by Dr. Garland G. Parker, provost of the University of Cincinnati.

The survey, said Garland, indicated there were 2.1 million freshmen, an increase of 4 per cent and "the key to the enrollment puzzle."

Parker, an authority on college enrollments, will publish his annual enrollment study for the educational journal "School and Society" in December.

"Despite much unrest and violence on many campuses last year, tighter budgets, higher costs, and the fact that there only was a midwest increase in persons reaching college age this year, U.S. colleges and universities continued to receive a high vote of confidence from scholars and citizens as students enrolled again in record numbers," said Parker.

The names of the colleges reporting were not named, only designated as state universities and private institutions.

He said his estimates were based on percentages of increases from the reporting colleges.

The annual study was started at the University of Cincinnati in 1919 by former President Raymond E. Walters, who died this week. He retired in the mid-1950's.

"In the face of increasing un-specialists in many fields, and a slowdown in the national economy, the conviction appears to remain on the part of the great majority of high school graduates that collegiate training is essential to success and job security," Parker said.

Despite the increases indicated in colleges, Parker said enrollments are "flattening out compared to the late 1960's."

He predicted continued slight increases in the 1970's "but with over eight million already on college campuses, even slender increases will be massive in their cumulative effect."

Parker added: "In the 1970's the nation is being confronted with many awesome challenges, such as the urban crisis, crime, poverty, race, pollution and population. It is a sobering thought to observe that if significant progress is not made by the leaders and citizens of this country in this decade on solutions of the great problems they face, it may be too late."

3 Amendments To Face Ohio Voters Nov. 3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three proposed constitutional amendments will be decided by Ohio voters Nov. 3. All require a majority affirmative vote for passage.

Amendment No. 1, as it appears on the official election ballot, proposes the Ohio General Assembly be empowered to grant tax exemptions to Ohio residents 65 years of age and older.

If accepted by voters, the amendment will also authorize the legislature to set income and other requirements as conditions for a tax reduction.

Amendment No. 2 proposes that voter eligibility requirements for the state be relaxed. State law currently requires a one-year period of residence in Ohio before citizens may vote in state elections.

If approved, the amendment would drop the residency requirement to six months and bring state statutes into compliance with federal regulations for voters in national elections.

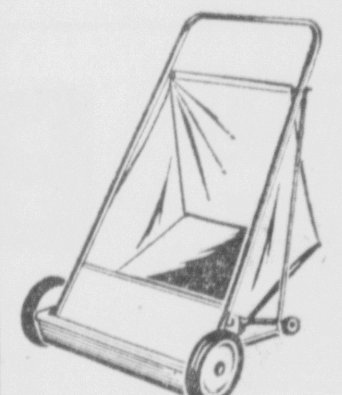

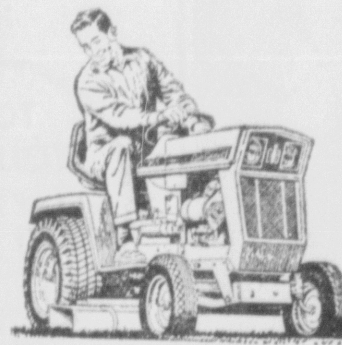

The third amendment calls for municipal charters to be announced to the community in the form of a newspaper advertisement.

Ohio law now requires that such amendments be presented to the public by way of individual mailings. Either form of announcement would be valid under the new constitutional provision.

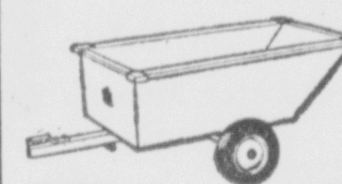

If passed, each of the new provisions would become effective Jan. 1, 1971.

Since World War II, some 300,000 illicit housing units have sprung up in Rome without city authorization or zoning.

Struggle To Save Environment Goes On

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

Since the early 1900s, air pollution over the North Atlantic Ocean has doubled. It has at least doubled over the Indian Ocean.

In the eastern United States, air pollution may be so widespread as to damage plant life in rural areas far from the urban sources of pollution.

From 1935 to 1969, samples of marine phytoplankton from Monterey Bay, Calif., showed DDT residues had tripled.

Millions—literally millions—of menhaden die in fish kills in Florida and Pennsylvania ... woodcocks may be so loaded with DDT as to be unsafe for eating ... the official list of endangered species lengthens.

On and on. Despite beginning efforts by government and industry—prodded by environmentalists—the daily accounting of the small details of what is happening to man's environment is often grim.

And the good and the bad intermingle: The use of DDT to control the gypsy moth was discontinued in mid-1960. Now the gypsy moth threatens hardwood timberland in the Allegheny, Appalachian and Ozark mountains. Government scientists try a synthetic sex attractant to detect and control the despoiler.

For all the frustration in the face of sometimes overwhelming problems, the fight to save the environment goes on.

Several years ago traces of lead were found in samples of antarctic ice. Traces of DDT were found in penguins. This fall, the National Science Foundation is sending scientists to sample the relatively pure antarctic atmosphere for whatever traces of lead, copper, iron, aluminum and other metals there may be and compare the levels with those found elsewhere in the world, to see how such pollutants may be transported about the globe.

The Brown Pelican of Louisiana and Southern California has nearly been exterminated because of failure to reproduce. The failure is due to thinning of eggshells caused by the accumulation of chlorinated hydrocarbons such as DDT. Other species were found to suffer from the same problem this year. Now, scientists from the University of California Berkeley hope to gather information about the distribution patterns of such hydrocarbons by studying the reproduction of a wide-ranging sea bird, Wilson's Petrel.

The Petrel, ranging from polar to polar region, may serve as a monitor of this kind of pollution.

The finding about air pollution came from scientists at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Agency—NOAA or "Noah"—after studying new data and comparing it to findings from ocean voyages in the early part of the century.

William E. Cobb, a NOAA meteorologist at Boulder, Colo., said the study found clean air over the South Pacific, emphasizing man's effect on the atmosphere elsewhere.

"We know we are changing the atmosphere," Cobb said. "We must know how and at what rate we are changing it."

So far, he said, nature has been able to take care of her own atmospheric pollution, such as the spewing into the atmosphere of cataclysmic amounts of material from the eruption of the volcano Krakatoa.

"It is essential," Cobb said, "that we keep a close watch on her attempts to handle man's continuous pollution since nature's reaction could be something drastic. Even another ice age is possible."

References to ice ages are often criticized in the continuing debate over the consequences of environmental damage. Critics say there is too little known about the chances of an ice age, then decay, although not in reference to Cobb, what they term excessive emotionalism.

However, "A little hysteria required" is the title of an editorial in a recent issue of Chemical Society. In it, Managing Editor Melvin J. Josephs writes:

"If real and steady progress is to be made in improving the quality of the environment, then, perhaps, continuous and steady, albeit modest, inputs of alarm, panic and hysteria are required of interested citizens. Otherwise progress comes haltingly, if at all."

"Only when the complaints of the citizenry have become strident, when some measured alarm, panic and hysteria come on the environmental scene, has any real action toward general pollution abatement taken place. The rational, systematic, scientific approach seems to work better with a healthy dollop of emotion added."

The unusual also plays a part in the environmental story:

—A University of Rochester team of scientists has begun a study of Irondequoit Bay, a bay of Lake Ontario. Among the other pollution problems, the team found a "vastly higher" salt concentration than expected. The probable cause: Salt entering the bay in runoff from the area's city streets, where salt is used heavily for snow and ice control during the winter and which motorists long complained rusted their automobiles.

—The Minnesota Conservation Department and Bemidji State College have agreed to make a two-year study of the effects of snowmobiles on the ecology of Northern Minnesota. With 114,646 snowmobiles registered as of last July, the teams want to find out if they affect wildlife population, plant life, deer activity. "Most wildlife is under stress during the winter, which massive snowmobile invasion may greatly aggravate," a spokesman said.

Cincinnati Youth Given Chair In Murder Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 20-year-old Cincinnati youth, convicted Friday on a first degree murder charge, was sentenced to die in the electric chair Feb. 27.

Court passed sentence on Otis Fairbanks in the death of Jerry Carpenter, 22, of the Norwood section on last Feb. 16.

A jury which convicted Fairbanks did not recommend mercy, making the death penalty mandatory. His attorneys have filed notice of an appeal.

Fairbanks, who had been serving a robbery sentence, also is indicted on a first degree murder charge in the fatal shooting last Jan. 29 of University of Cincinnati coed Carol Sanders, 18, of Akron, Ohio.

Seek To Subpoena Beatles To Testify In Tate Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Lennon of the Beatles is being sought as a witness in the Sharon Tate murder trial. The defense wants him to say whether the group's songs could have inspired Charles Manson to violence.

"We want John Lennon to testify," a defense source said in an interview Tuesday. "We feel he may want to explain the lyrics."

The state has asserted that Manson ordered his followers to kill Miss Tate and six others in August 1969, aiming to trigger a race war which he felt was predicted in a Beatles song, "Helter Skelter."

The source, who asked not to be identified, said the defense had been trying for months to subpoena Lennon, believed to be in the Los Angeles area, but "there is an unbelievable wall surrounding him."

He added, "We still hope to reach him. He's the most articulate and philosophical of the Beatles and he understands his social and political effect on the world."

The defense case is scheduled to open next week—the 21st week of the trial. The source said it would last about a month. Manson, 35, and three young women followers are charged with murder conspiracy in the slayings.

Other entertainment personalities have been subpoenaed, the source said. Among those scheduled to take the stand are Mama Cass Elliot and John Phillips, both former members of the Mamas and the Papas singing group.

Both are said to have known Manson in 1968 when he tried for a career as a musician and socialized with recording personalities.

"All of these people are extremely reluctant to testify," said the source, "but they are under subpoena."

He said the women defendants in the case are not expected to take the witness stand.

Manson is scheduled to be the last witness for the defense.

Much of his testimony is expected to be his version of the

Kidney Transplant Progress Noted By Leading Surgeon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Kidney transplant techniques have advanced to the point where a surgeon's greatest worry is that a patient may neglect to take his medication after he goes home, a noted transplant surgeon says.

Dr. Samuel Kountz, speaking Tuesday to about 600 attending the American Association of Blood Banks convention, also reported that costs for the life-saving kidney transplant operation have been reduced sharply.

"A kidney transplant now costs less than to have one's stomach fixed," said Kountz, who has performed 262 such transplants since 1964 with a 90 per cent survival rate.

Kountz, on the staff of the University of California's San Francisco Medical Center, said, "At UC the first 50 cost an average of $35,000 each. The next 100 averaged $17,000 and now they are less than $5,000."

Referring to postoperative deaths, he said, "The greatest loss we've had in grafts is failure of patient to take their required medication after they leave the hospital."

Appearing with Kountz was heart transplant surgeon Dr. Norman Shumway of Stanford University Medical Center.

Shumway said that despite a lessening of publicity about his specialty, there is "no moratorium on heart transplants."

He has performed 27 heart transplants, the most recent on Oct. 15.

Shumway said he performed operations on nine of the 23 heart transplant patients in the world who are surviving today. One is Carl A. Shaeffer, 55, of Palo Alto, who observed the second anniversary of his operation last Monday.

Both surgeons, speaking at a luncheon, said the future outlook is for transplantation of virtually any human organ except the brain.

Burnable Bottles Market Tested

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio has developed a clear plastic resin from which safely burnable bottles can be made, the company announced Tuesday.

The resin, from which plastic bottles were made and market tested in Las Vegas, was described Tuesday at a meeting of the Society of Plastics Engineers at Cherry Hill, N.J. The bottles were 80 per cent lighter than their glass counterparts, just as quickly chilled, and retained as much flavor and carbonation as glass, Sohio said.

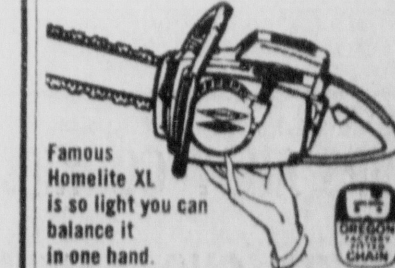

In addition, the firm said tests showed that incinerator discharges "did not change significantly" when the resin bottles were added to material being burned.

According to a gas equipment maker, smelly smudge pots may soon be out of Oregon orchards. Growers have found they can pipe gas through irrigation mains, then burn it in rock-filled vessels to keep frost away from fruit without fouling the air with smoke.

KEEPING FOOD VALUE IN FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

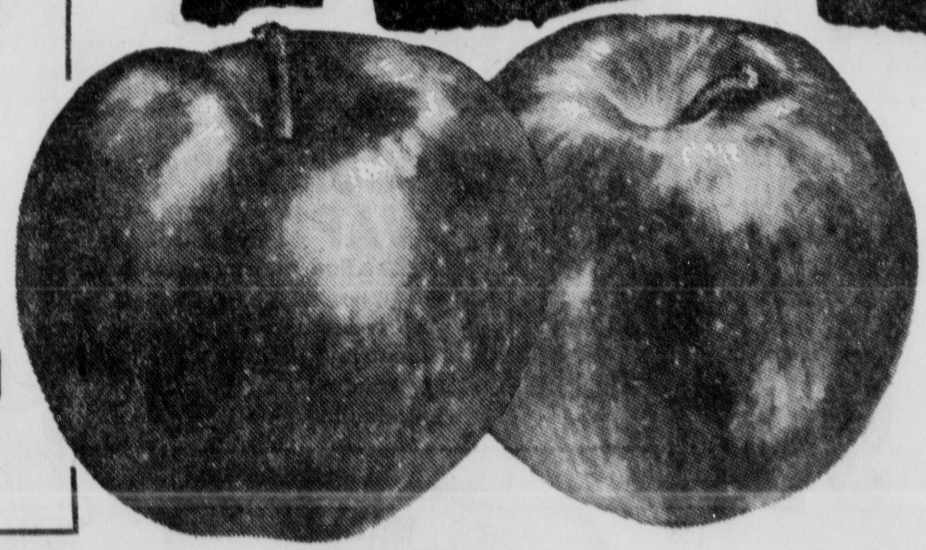

Fresh fruits and vegetables begin to lose nutrient right after harvest, but the amount of rate of loss depends on the type of food and the nutrient. Vitamin C is lost more easily than any other vitamin. Under storage conditions in which Vitamin C is retained, other nutrients are thought to remain stable. Green leafy vegetables are vulnerable to Vitamin C loss. They should be refrigerated as quickly as possible after purchasing. They will retain about half of the original Vitamin C content after 5 days under refrigeration. Because of their original high content, such vegetables makes an excellent contribution of Vitamin C even after storage. Cabbage, green beans, and tomatoes also retain nutrients well. Citrus fruits are an excellent source of Vitamin C and the juice retains most of the original content for several days whether freshly squeezed or reconstituted frozen juice. Flavor changes occur before much of the Vitamin is lost.

Top Ohio Candidates Exchange Charges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Senate candidacy of Democrat Howard Metzenbaum, a labor lawyer and Cleveland businessman, was endorsed Tuesday by the chairman of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

At the same time, the Republican candidate, Robert Taft Jr., accused Metzenbaum of ignoring the importance of a "vigorous private sector of the economy when it comes to providing jobs."

In the gubernatorial race, Republican Roger Cloud said Democrat John Gilligan was "soft on law violators" and claimed to have facts to prove it.

Gilligan blamed the Republican administration for failing to provide the money, men, equipment or commitment "to win the war against crime."

Metzenbaum picked up the support of Frank Cheney during a campaign stop in Lima. Cheney, vice president of Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. in Lima, said he was backing Metzenbaum as an individual, not as a Chamber of Commerce officer.

"Howard Metzenbaum is a self-made businessman, a man who knows what it's like to make it on his own," Cheney told newsmen at the Allen County Airport.

Metzenbaum said the endorsement was "something special" to him and another indication that a cross-section of Ohioans has rallied behind him.

Taft, in a statement issued by his Cincinnati headquarters, said Metzenbaum "would compound the jobless problem by denying businesses the fast tax write-offs which I have proposed for businesses which install anti-pollution devices and by meat-axing $20 billion from a defense budget already cut about $12 billion by the administration."

"My opponent is trying to play on peoples' fears on the one hand and opposing positive proposals to safeguard and create new jobs on the other," Taft said.

Cloud cited three specific votes registered by Gilligan as a congressman in 1965 and 1966 which, he said, "more than confirm that my opponent is soft on law violators."

His remarks were prepared for delivery today during a campaign swing through Cuyahoga and Summit counties.

Cloud said Gilligan voted against measures to give police greater investigative and interrogative powers and voted for the Bail Reform Act which provided for quick release of persons charged with non-capital offenses.

"These are just three examples where Gilligan's permissive attitude showed up in the Congressional Record," Cloud said.

Gilligan told a service club in Dayton Tuesday that Ohioans have lost confidence in a state government that has "let its people down."

"How do we tell our people to believe a political party which runs on a law-and-order platform and preaches fiscal responsibility and sound money management while millions of tax dollars and public trust funds are illegally invested..." he asked.

"How do we square officials who wring their hands about soaring crime rates and then refuse to provide us the money or men or equipment or commitment to win the war against crime?"

Gilligan said the time has come for a government "that begins to keep faith with the people of Ohio."

Elsewhere in Ohio politics: John F. Kennedy, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, said in a "debate" before the Cleveland City Club that incumbent Ted W. Brown mishandled the registration of Crofters, Inc., the money finding firm involved in the state loan scandal.

Kennedy spoke unopposed after Brown did not appear for the debate.

Kennedy said Brown granted incorporation papers to Crofters on Sept. 18, 1969, without a signature.

nature of a statutory agent as required by law. He said the papers also were filed without the names of any principal officers and that the names added later.

Roger W. Tracy Jr., Republican candidate for state auditor, said in a campaign statement Tuesday he would, if elected, follow an investment policy which emphasizes security rather than return.

The auditor sits on a number of boards responsible for investments.

Tracy said that while investment is good because it increases state income, it always involves some degree of risk. And that risk, he said, should be as low as possible when the investment of public money is involved.

Democrat Gertrude Donahay said in Lima Tuesday that if elected treasurer she will call regular monthly meetings of the state Board of Deposits, as required by law.

She said Treasurer John Herbert failed to call four such meetings in 1969 and two this year, and criticized other members of the board for not requesting them.

Man Appears With Grenade; Officers Shaken

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — When a young man walked in the door of the police station holding a grenade in his outstretched hand, a woman desk clerk shouted "Get out of here!"

A sergeant threw his pistol at two other officers rushed the unprotected young man.

Then the man explained: He bought the unarmed grenade and later feared it might still be live, so he brought it in for the police to dispose of. It was unarmed, officers reported Monday, and they got rid of it.

And they advised Douglas Yoakam, 21, next time he has to bring a grenade to the police station, please call first.

Top Ohio Candidates Exchange Charges

The Circleville Herald, Wed., Oct. 23, 1970 13
Circleville, Ohio

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Senate candidacy of Democrat Howard Metzenbaum, a labor lawyer and Cleveland businessman, was endorsed Tuesday by the chairman of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.
At the same time, the Republican candidate, Robert Taft Jr., accused Metzenbaum of ignoring the importance of a "vigorous private sector of the economy when it comes to providing jobs."

In the gubernatorial race, Republican Roger Cloud said Democrat John Gilligan was "soft on law violators" and claimed to have facts to prove it.
Gilligan blamed the Republican administration for failing to provide the money, men, equipment or commitment "to win the war against crime."

Metzenbaum picked up the support of Frank Cheney during a campaign stop in Lima, Cheney, vice president of Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. in Lima, said he was backing Metzenbaum as an individual, not as a Chamber of Commerce officer.

"Howard Metzenbaum is a self-made businessman, a man who knows what it's like to make it on his own," Cheney told newsmen at the Allen County Airport.

Metzenbaum said the endorsement was "something special" to him and another indication that a cross-section of Ohioans has rallied behind him.

Taft, in a statement issued by his Cincinnati headquarters, said Metzenbaum "would compound the jobless problem by denying businesses the fast tax write-offs which I have proposed for businesses which install anti-pollution devices and by meat-axing $20 billion from a defense budget already cut about $12 billion by the administration."

"My opponent is trying to play on peoples' fears on the one hand and opposing positive proposals to safeguard and create new jobs on the other," Taft said.

Cloud cited three specific votes registered by Gilligan as a congressman in 1965 and 1966 which, he said, "more than confirm that my opponent is soft on law violators."

His remarks were prepared for delivery today during a campaign swing through Cuyahoga and Summit counties.

Cloud said Gilligan voted against measures to give police greater investigative and interrogative powers and voted for the Bail Reform Act which provided for quick release of persons charged with non-capital offenses.

"These are just three examples where Gilligan's permissive attitude showed up in the Congressional Record," Cloud said.

Gilligan told a service club in Dayton Tuesday that Ohioans have lost confidence in a state government that has "let its people down."

"How do we tell our people to believe a political party which runs on a law-and-order platform and preaches fiscal responsibility and sound money management while millions of tax dollars and public trust funds are illegally invested..." he asked.

"How do we square officials who wring their hands about soaring crime rates and then refuse to provide us the money or men or equipment or commitment to win the war against crime?"

Gilligan said the time has come for a government "that begins to keep faith with the people of Ohio."

Elsewhere in Ohio politics: John F. Kennedy, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, said in a "debate" before the Cleveland City Club that incumbent Ted W. Brown mishandled the registration of Crofters, Inc., the money finding firm involved in the state loan scandal.

Kennedy spoke unopposed after Brown did not appear for the debate.

Kennedy said Brown granted incorporation papers to Crofters on Sept. 18, 1969, without a signature.

nature of a statutory agent as required by law. He said the papers also were filed without the names of any principal officers and that the names added later.

Roger W. Tracy Jr., Republican candidate for state auditor, said in a campaign statement

Tuesday he would, if elected, follow an investment policy which emphasizes security rather than return.
The auditor sits on a number of boards responsible for investments.
Tracy said that while investment is good because it increases state income, it always involves some degree of risk. And that risk, he said, should be as low as possible when the investment of public money is involved.
Democrat Gertrude Donahay said in Lima Tuesday that if elected treasurer she will call regular monthly meetings of the state Board of Deposits, as required by law.
She said Treasurer John Herbert failed to call four such meetings in 1969 and two this year, and criticized other members of the board for not requesting them.

Man Appears With Grenade; Officers Shaken

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.
(AP) — When a young man walked in the door of the police station holding a grenade in his outstretched hand, a woman desk clerk shouted "Get out of here!"

A sergeant threw his pistol as two other officers rushed the unarmed, officers reported Monday, and they got rid of it.
Then the man explained: He bought the unarmed grenade and later feared it might still be live, so he brought it in for the police to dispose of. It was unarmed, officers reported Monday, and they got rid of it.
And they advised Douglas Yoakam, 21, next time he has to bring a grenade to the police station, please call first.

CHS Open House A Success; Jr. High's Planned Thursday

Circleville High School sponsored a very successful Parents' Back-To-School Night Tuesday.

Estimates indicate 180 parents present for the event scheduled last night at the high school building. As guests, they were allowed to visit with their children's teachers for short periods to meet the instructor and have an opportunity to understand the objectives of the class. CHS's 37 faculty members were on hand to answer questions and supervise different activities and demonstrations planned in some of the departments.

Students were present to demonstrate some equipment available in the school's physical education program, workshop, home economics and audio-visual departments and projects underway in these and various other classes.

The Student Council also held a book fair in the high school library in conjunction with the open house. Parents were permitted to browse at their leisure through the selections.

Circleville's Junior High will hold their annual Back-To-School activities Thursday evening beginning at 7:30. All parents are asked to assemble at this time in the auditorium, located near the school's South Court St. entrance.

Parents will be asked to follow a schedule of their youngsters' classes during the evening.

An informal social hour in the cafeteria will follow. Refreshments will be provided by Mrs. Gloria Gabriel and some of her home economics classes.

Cloudbursts Soak Texas With 18 Inches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy downpours drenched parts of the South again today as showers and thunderstorms ranged over the nation's mid-section from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

Nearly 11 inches of rain fell on New Orleans in the predawn hours. More than an inch soaked Corpus Christi and Brownsville, Tex.

The southeastern Texas town of Deweyville, northeast of Beaumont, was swamped by more than 18 inches in the 24 hours ending Tuesday night. Nearly 9 inches came down in less than four hours.

Many businesses in Beaumont closed early on Tuesday as rains began to fill streets and drainage ditches. Over 8 inches hit the city from Monday until Tuesday night.

Similarly heavy rain extended north into central Arkansas throughout Tuesday.

The storms that brought the rains also unleashed several tornadoes over southeast Texas. Five were reported in the Houston vicinity alone. Up to 15 homes received varying damage in two separate twisters.

One man was injured when the winds overturned his mobile home north of Houston.

Light snow sifted onto the Northern Plains as unseasonably cold air remained centered over the Western interior. Two inches fell at Broadus, in southeastern Montana. An inch whitened Dickinson, N.D.

Mild weather prevailed through most of the East, but temperatures fell into the 30s in New England overnight.

Fair and mild conditions were the rule in most areas west of the Rockies.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 14 at Ely, Nev., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

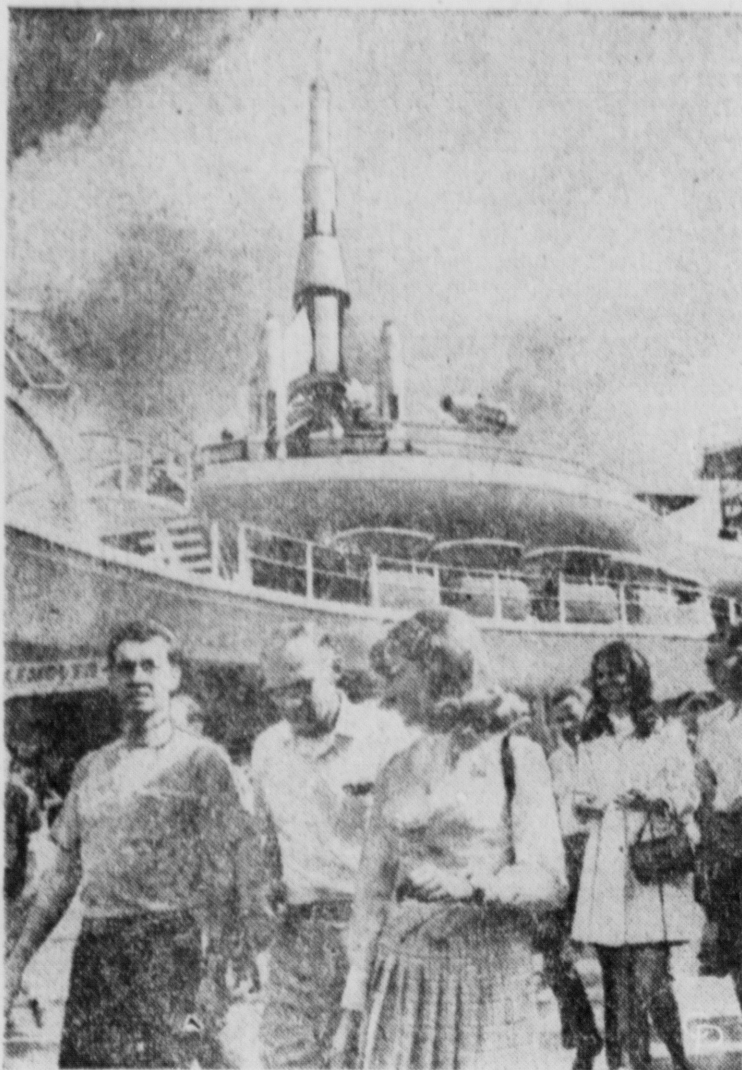

In 1945, chewing gum industry sources agreed that the United States annually was chewing 15 billion sticks, which laid end to end would encircle the Earth at the equator 260 times. By 1960 gum buffs asserted that sticks of gum laid end to end would stretch to the sun, 93 million miles away.

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he has "loved every minute" of his controversial campaign travels this fall and has "relished this assignment for President Nixon."

"No task any vice president has ever had could begin to measure up to mine this year in importance to the people of the United States," Agnew told a Navy League dinner Tuesday night in what was billed as a nonpolitical speech, but turned out to be anything but.

After his one-night visit to New York, Agnew had campaign stops scheduled today in Albany, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala.

Agnew's appearance here was planned before the vice president became a major issue in the state's three-way U.S. Senate race by declaring that Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., had read himself out of the GOP.

Agnew aides said beforehand the appearance was not political and the vice president said he was checking "my political hat at the door."

But Agnew made Goodell, who has become one of the Senate's leading doves since he was appointed two years ago to succeed the late Robert F. Kennedy, a major part of his lengthy argument for strong national defense.

Earnings By Ford Dip

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has announced that its sales for the first nine months of 1970 were almost even with last year, but earnings were down considerably due to higher labor and materials costs.

Third quarter sales were reported Tuesday at a record $3.4 billion, compared to Ford's previous high third quarter of $3.2 billion in 1969. Net income per share was 68 cents contrasted with 50 cents per share in 1969.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of the Ford Motor Co. said new car sales in the United States for the third quarter were at an 8.9-million-car annual rate and said the rate would be still higher except for the United Auto Workers strike at General Motors.

"Although dollar sales were about the same in the first nine months of 1970 as those in the comparable period of 1969, net income was nine per cent lower this year than last," said Ford.

Central Ohio's Historical Heritage May Be Dramatized

The Central Ohio area will be host for three days to a team of specialists of the Institute of Outdoor Drama University of North Carolina, beginning Nov. 2.

Mark R. Sumner, Director of the Institute, will head the group who will be in town to complete a study of the feasibility of creating an epic outdoor drama for South-Central Ohio depicting life in the Ohio Country around 1800.

With Sumner will be noted playwright and author Robert Emmett McDowell. He is noted for his plays, such as "Home is the Hunter," and historical novels, "Tidewater Spring" and "City in Conflict," and murder mysteries.

Third member of the team will be George Mallonee. He is currently general manager of "The Lost Colony," an outdoor drama at Manteo, N.C. Mallonee has worked in the field of professional drama, on and off Broadway. Immediately prior to joining the staff at Manteo, he worked as production assistant for "The Great White Hope," at Washington's Arena Stage in the District of Columbia.

The Scioto Society, Inc., will host this distinguished team during their stay in Chillicothe. The men will be visiting with local business men and with members of the College of Fine Arts, Ohio University, Athens, discussing in depth the prospects of establishing an amphitheatre in the Ross County area and developing a play concerning the life and times of the Shawnee Chief, Tecumseh.

On Monday evening, Nov. 2, an open reception and dinner will be held at the Holiday Inn, Route 23-North Chillicothe in honor of these men. The public is invited to attend.

Reservations should be made by writing to the Scioto Society and materials costs.

KSU Prexy Defends Professor

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University President Robert I. White Tuesday defended geology Prof. Glenn W. Frank, who spoke out in contempt of court over the weekend, and praised him for his commitment to the university.

Frank called the findings of a special state grand jury investigating the May disturbances on the campus "stupid and naive." He made the statements after a special prosecutor for the grand jury, Seabury H. Ford, allegedly said in a newspaper interview that the Ohio National Guard "should have shot all" troublemakers on campus.

The grand jury investigated the events which led to the shooting deaths of four students and the wounding of nine others May 4 during a clash between guardsmen and anti-war demonstrators.

All persons connected with the jury were under court orders not to discuss their testimony or the jury's findings. Frank testified twice before the jury. Both Frank and Ford were charged with contempt of court and released on $500 bond.

White said that when Frank responded to Ford's comments the professor "felt obligated to speak in defense of the university and its students."

"No one holds a greater commitment to Kent State University and to justice," White said of Frank. "Any university would be fortunate to hold his allegiance."

On November's agenda is a taffy pull.

Strict flag etiquette provides that the only occasion the Stars and Stripes legally can be burned, is when the flag is tattered and worn-out. In that case, the flags are supposed to be taken apart, the blue field and stripes burned separately and the ashes then buried.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Department of Labor has filed individual injunction suits in U.S. District Court here against three Darke County farmers for alleged violations of the child labor and other provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The three named in complaint are Marvin Detling of Andonia; Richard Detling and Robert Stocksdale, both of near Union City.

Marvin Detling and Stockdale were cited for allegedly employing minors during school hours at different periods in September 1968 and September 1970. Richard Detling was charged with employing minors during September of 1968, 1969 and 1970.

The court was asked for judgments to permanently enjoin and restrain the three farmers from future violations of the law.

In addition, action seeking injunctions to prohibit further employment of minors was taken in the U.S. District Court in Toledo Monday by the Labor Department against six individuals and one company—Sharp Canning, Inc., of Rockford and Ohio City.

The individuals named in the government suits were Howard Sachs, Fremont; Walter Bostleman, Liberty; C. E. McCleary, Van Wert; William R. Niesse, Leipsic; Melvin Tiltji, Malinta, and Harvey Schulze, McClure.

Art Students Tour Show Exhibits

Circleville Bible College's art class toured local art displays on exhibit at the Pumpkin Show Thursday.

On similar field trips the past two years, visits to the Pumpkin Show Arts and Crafts exhibit and the Circleville Art League exhibit at the courthouse have proven to be informative and enjoyable for students.

Currently the class is involved in creating a large poster for the upcoming Missionary Convention planned at the Bible College campus.

These activities are under the direction of Jack Born, art instructor.

Married Couples Club Holds Fall Hayride

A hay ride and wiener roast was the beginning of the year's activities for members of the Married Couples Organization early this month.

Couples were driven to Hargus Lake then returned to the campus where they fellowshiped around the fire for the wiener roast.

On November's agenda is a taffy pull.

Strict flag etiquette provides that the only occasion the Stars and Stripes legally can be burned, is when the flag is tattered and worn-out. In that case, the flags are supposed to be taken apart, the blue field and stripes burned separately and the ashes then buried.

Class Notes

SENIOR CLASS

New officers for the year are: Ron Priest, president; Dave Shaffer, vice president; Pat Benninger, secretary and Palmer Neumeister, chaplain. The class has been busy with plans for completing their project of a prayer room. Money making projects are in the planning stage.

Officers elected for the 1970-71 school term are: Judy McCullough, president; Wayne Reynolds, vice president; Charlene Timblin, secretary; Pam Dunn, treasurer; Linda Willey, chaplain.

A trip to Greenfield Village in Michigan, was the highlight of October's activities for the Junior Class. Other events underway for the students include management of the snack-hut and preparation of the Junior-Senior Banquet in the spring.

SOHPMORE CLASS

Halloween came early to the CBC Sophomore Class when they sponsored their annual party Oct. 16 at the Circleville YMCA.

The gymnasium was decorated with traditional Halloween symbols — fodder, pumpkins, scarecrows, jack-o-lanterns, skeletons, witches and black cat. Special emphasis was added with a graveyard complete with tombstones for each member of the faculty.

Beginning the program with devotions was the class sponsor, Mr. David Case, after which The 1970 Reflections will be the second consecutive publication of the yearbook. Distribution will be sometime in May.

There was a group singing of "Isabelle is a Witch" written by members of the student body, was presented to the assembled group.

The evening was climaxed with games and refreshments.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Elected to offices for the present school term were: Charles Young, president; Larry Fultz, vice president; Brenda Mason, secretary; Kim Rudin, treasurer and David Bell, chaplain.

Missionary Work Honored

The week of Oct. 25-30 is Missionary Emphasis Week. Special chapels will be held as well as activities each evening centering about the theme — "... that I might by all means save some." (1 Cor. 9:22)

Alvin Conkey, president of the Student Missionary Organization, announced that Dr. Eva Gilger, dean at Miltonvale College in Kansas and former missionary to Kenya, will be the main convention speaker. Evening activities include a missionary quiz, films, an original play and a Friday night banquet. Stanley Tam, a Lima industrialist who has given strong support to missionary work, will speak.

Miss Mary Van Hoose, treasurer of the SMO, announced a goal for the convention week of $2,000. Last year during the week of convention $1,600 was given. Collections for the year usually exceeds $6,000.

Other officers assisting in the missionary program are Gary Hays, vice president; Vicki Krautter, recording secretary; Connie Canfield, corresponding secretary and Miss Joann Allison, advisor.

TEAYS VALLEY SENIORS — These young men will be playing their last home football game Friday night when Teays Valley hosts Olenetangy in a Metropolitan League clash. Most of these boys are regulars and Coach Dick Kidwell will have a rebuilding year in 1971. From the left, front row — Keith Archer, Stan Clay, Rob Archer, Scott Barr, Chuck Frazier, Jeff Ehman, Charles Forson, Rick Morehart and Steve Cline. Back row — John Glick, Steve Hines, Jeff Heller, Bob Tucker, Ron Crosby, Champ Henson, Bob Browning and Rick Swank.

TV, Braves At Home Mustangs On Road

Westfall will travel to Unioto Friday night while Teays Valley will host Olenetangy in its home finale and Logan Elm will entertain Picketon in the last home tilt for the Braves.

"We have to consider the East Clinton game just about our finest effort," Westfall Coach Bill Vance stated. "Our kids went all out and didn't let down."

"In the winning touchdown drive we ran 13 plays in four minutes and didn't make a mistake," Vance continued. "Dave Shannon did an excellent job of directing the drive and our boys were poised and cool under pressure."

"You just can't say enough about Steve Nevil," Vance said, "he gives you 100 per cent all the time and is a fine team player. He carried 17 times for 90 yards and also led the team in tackles."

RON Greenwood injured his back and is lost for the season but the rest of the squad is healthy and should be ready for Unioto.

Unioto uses a stacked 4-4 defense that is tough to move against. They were able to contain Paint Valley's potent offense and have shown well in other frays.

The chief offensive threat of Unioto is its fine tailback, Jim Sprouse, who likes to sweep and hit off tackle. The Mustangs will have to keep him in check if they are going to win the ball game.

On offense the Mustangs will go with Randy Long at center and Artie Dick and Larry Adams at the guards.

The tackles will be Joe Jude and John Greene with Rich Riddle and Tom Musselman at the ends.

Dave Shannon will be calling the signals, Steve Nevil will be at fullback, Dave Eitel the halfback and Randy Metzger the flanker.

COACH Vance will continue to vary the defense and employ as many players as possible.

The Mustangs are now 2-5 for the season and will play their final game on Nov. 6 when they will host Paint Valley.

"We had a fine offensive game against Dublin," Teays Valley Coach Dick Kidwell remarked, "due to some excellent line blocking and hard running on the part of our backs. This enabled us to garner over 400 yards in the game."

"Our pass defense let us down but we have been working all week to improve it," Kidwell continued. Olenetangy brings a team to Teays Valley that is just getting back into the football picture after a year's layoff. They are without a win this season and sport an 0-7 record.

On offense Olenetangy will move from a straight T and the defensive unit employs an Oklahoma defense.

THE Vikings injury list has healed and they will be a healthy squad for Friday's encounter with Olenetangy.

Teays Valley's power offense will be fired by Champ Henson and Bob Tucker, a pair of fine hard hitting backs. Henson is averaging 162 yards a game and 6.3 yards per carry while Tucker has an 89-yard game average and is averaging 8.0 yards per carry.

Offensively the Vikings will have Jeff Helsner and Steve Hines at the ends with Jack Brinker and John Glick at the tackles.

Chuck Frazier and Ron Archer will be the guards with Dean Bastian in the center of the line.

Stan Clay will call the signals. Ron Crosby will be at fullback, Bob Tucker the halfback and Champ Henson will be the tailback.

On defense, Scott Barr and Henson will be the ends, Bob Archer and Brinker the tackles and Terry McDaniel the middle guard.

CROSBY and Tucker will operate from the linebackers spots. Jeff Ehman and Hines will be the halfbacks, Ray Good will be the safety and Helsner the rover back.

Teays Valley is now 5-2 for the season and will conclude its season Nov. 6 when they travel to Washington C. H. to meet the Blue Lions.

The Olenetangy game will also be parents night and the Vikings will honor the parents of the players and cheerleaders.

It will be parents night at Logan Elm Friday with the introduction of the parents, players and cheerleaders scheduled before the game.

Picketon operates from a pro-type offense according to scouting reports and uses a number of defensive alignments, including a 3-4 in addition to the standard defenses.

Picketon has a 3-4 record and although the Redstreaks have been able to score a lot of points (164) they have also allowed a lot of points (171).

THE offense machine is engineered by Allen Crace, All-Scioto Valley Conference quarterback last year. Crace is the man the Braves will have to stop.

He is a top passer and an outstanding runner. In addition he runs back punts and kicks and plays middle linebacker on defense.

The Redstreaks and Braves have played two common opponents this fall. Picketon beat Westfall 50-16 while Logan Elm won 14-8 over the Mustangs. The Redstreaks lost to Paint Valley 30-12, a team that downed LE 33-6.

Logan Elm will use a 5-3 defense in an effort to contain Crace and company. Mike Hupp will be the middle guard, Dale Valentine and John Stant the tackles, Steve Curtis and Jim Fox the ends. John Mead will be middle linebacker and Tim Speakman and Steve Pusey the outside linebackers.

John Weaver and Wertie Teets will be the halfbacks and Dean Godden the safety.

The Braves received a blow during last Friday's game when Keith Lands sustained a shoulder separation and will be lost for the rest of the season.

INJURIES to key personnel have hampered the Braves this season. First Brad Barr, veteran defensive end, was lost for the season when he suffered a compound fracture of the forearm. A kidney bruise forced Wertie Teets to miss the Paint Valley contest while quarterback Punk Jones missed the Paint Valley contest and was in the St. Charles battle for only two plays because of a shoulder separation.

Except for Lands and Barr, however, the Braves are expected to be at nearly full strength for Friday's contest. It will be the last home game for Logan Elm.

The Scioto Valley Conference lead is currently shared by Paint Valley, defending champion, and Adena, both with 3-0 SVC records. Unioto, Picketon and Logan Elm are all tied for third with 1-2 records while Westfall is sixth in the league with an 0-3 mark.

NCAA Council Eyes Easing Of Eligibility

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Council of the NCAA voted Tuesday to sponsor legislation at the group's convention in January to waive eligibility rules in extreme hardship cases.

The decision stemmed from the airplane crash which killed several members of the Wichita State football team earlier this year.

The 18-member council said it could not change the rules without an amendment approved by the full membership of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, although it was sympathetic to the Wichita State case.

The legislation to be proposed would stipulate that large numbers of a team would have to be disabled before the eligibility waiver would occur.

In the Wichita State case, rules allow a freshman to participate in varsity football, but NCAA regulations would block these freshmen from participating in any post-season activity in their senior year.

In other action, the council informally approved a report from a financial aid committee to limit the number of scholarships each school can give and to require that scholarships be awarded only on a financial need formula.

The other part of the three-part program suggested by the committee would establish one date on which all member schools could issue scholarship invitations and establish a one week "quiet period" immediately after the scholarships are offered. During this period no coach could contact a high school prospect.

The idea is to allow the athlete to decide which school he wants to attend without outside pressure. Once the decision is made it can't be changed without forfeiture of a certain period of eligibility.

The net effect of the three-part proposal would be to drastically cut athletic costs and equalize competition.

Tarkenton Named Tops On Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — A few weeks ago, New Yorkers were calling for Fran Tarkenton's head on a chopping block. Now they're tipping their hats to the Giants' quarterback following his finest hour in a decade of National Football League play.

Tarkenton, a convenient scapegoat when the Giants blew first-half leads in three consecutive losses at the outset of the season, silenced his critics last Sunday with a flurry of five touchdown passes that toppled St. Louis 35-17 and evened New York's record at 3-3.

The 30-year-old signal-caller was selected today by The Associated Press as the NFL's Offensive Player of the Week.

Hot College Grid Action On Tap

By HERSHILL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Something's gotta give this weekend in the Big Ten and Ivy League football races.

Ohio State and Michigan are unbeaten and supposedly heading toward a showdown battle in Columbus on Nov. 21. But a glance at the Big Ten standings show that the second-ranked Buckeyes and fifth-ranked Wolverines have company in the Wildcats of Northwestern.

Northwestern hasn't had a winning season since 1963. But the Wildcats have won three straight league games after dropping their three nonconference tilts and are ranked 20th this week in The Associated Press poll.

Northwestern visits Ohio State on Saturday while Michigan plays at Wisconsin.

Barring a tie between Dartmouth and Yale, the Ivy League will have only one leader Saturday after those two unbeaten clash in the Yale Bowl before a crowd expected to approach 60,000.

Northwestern at Ohio State — "If you think you're going to get a quote on that, you're not," Woody Hayes told a newsman Tuesday after the Buckeyes, though still unbeaten, dropped from first to second in the AP poll this week. "I've got more important things to do."

That means plotting to get the Bucks back on top, which a lopsided victory might accomplish. Hello Columbus; goodbye Northwestern, Ohio State.

Michigan at Wisconsin — It's a good thing the Badgers beat Indiana last weekend because all they've got coming up is Michigan, followed by Ohio State, Michigan.

Dartmouth at Yale — Both teams have swift-striking attacks and both rank among the national leaders in most defensive categories. Yale won the series opener 113-0 back in 1884 but times have changed. Dartmouth.

Southern Methodist at Texas — Longhorns are on top in the rankings and mean to stay there. Texas.

Nebraska at Colorado — Cornhuskers are roaring toward the Big Eight title, Nebraska.

Wake Forest at Tennessee — Vols burst Deacons' bubble at four straight Tennessee.

Auburn at Florida — Gators are unbeaten at home ... until now. Auburn.

Pitt at Syracuse — After several lean years, Pitt is riding high. Panthers are ranked 15th and they're tops in the East. Having digested all that ... Syracuse.

Oregon at Washington — Ducks are still alive in the Rose Bowl race. Oregon.

West Virginia at Penn State — In preseason forecasts, this game was expected to decide the Eastern championship. Penn State has had the Indian sign on the Mountaineers since 1955. A new decade shouldn't prove any different, Penn State.

Bengals Acquire Gary McArthur

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League Tuesday signed 6-foot-five Gary McArthur, a 248-pound offensive lineman picked up on waivers from the Green Bay Packers.

McArthur, who played his college career at Southern California, was the fifth round draft choice of the San Francisco 49ers who let him go to Green Bay.

Upper Arlington May Equal Massillon's Top Win Mark

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Upper Arlington, if it wins at Chillicothe Friday night, can equal Massillon's all-time winning streak of 38 games for a major Ohio high school football team.

The Golden Bears, ranked second behind Massillon in The Associated Press Class AAA state poll this week, have gone unbeaten the last three seasons to grab the mythical Ohio crown for big schools.

Massillon established the Ohio record of 38 straight victories for big schools from the eighth game in 1937 through the fifth game of 1941.

Mansfield Senior stopped the Tigers' all-winning spell with a 6-6 tie in the sixth game of the 1941 campaign.

Around the state: Cleveland Holy Name and Cleveland St. Ignatius meet for the 50th time Friday night. The two played the first night high school football game in Ohio in 1921. St. Ignatius won that one 38-7 and holds a 27-19-5 series edge.

Mike Zaubi, a tailback in unbeaten Strongsville's single wing attack, leads the greater Cleveland area scorers with 104 points in seven games. He's a 6-foot, 170-pound senior.

Dave Denman of Johnstown hit 11 of 20 passes for 224 yards in Johnstown's 41-0 beating of Licking Heights, Hebron Lake won defeated Granville 14-7 for the first time since 1963.

Yorkville of Jefferson County, outscoring foes 334-12 for a 7-0 record, is after its first unbeaten season in 25 years. Cincinnati Woodward, Oak Hills, Harrison and Princeton can clinch league titles this week.

Charles Buckenmeyer has rolled up a 151-37-112 record in 21 seasons of coaching Napoleon in Henry County. Massillon has lost five of its last six games at Warren Harding, the Tiger's foe Friday night.

Brian Bowers, a 210-pound fullback for Hartsville Lake and the No. 1 recruiting plum in the Canton area, favors Ohio State as his college choice. Bowers has scored 112 points, leading

OSU Faces Northwestern Saturday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's second-ranked football team will be in its best physical shape of the season when Northwestern invades Ohio Stadium Saturday for a battle of the Big Ten co-leaders.

Running backs Larry Zelina and Leo Hayden. All-American cornerback Jack Tatum and offensive guard Brian Donovan, who have been ailing, all are ready for the game that likely will decide the Big Ten's Rose Bowl delegate.

OSU, Northwestern and Michigan share the conference lead with 3-0 marks, but the Wolverines, who played in the Rose Bowl last New Year's Day, are ineligible to return to Pasadena for the post-season classic.

Ohio State dropped to second place in the Associated Press college football poll Tuesday. Texas took over the No. 1 spot with 670 points to 664 for Ohio State.

Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes refused to comment on the poll as he arranged Tuesday to get some films of Northwestern in action.

"I've got more important things to do," Hayes said as he disappeared into the coaches' meeting room at the Ohio State practice facility.

TV, Braves At Home Mustangs On Road

Westfall will travel to Unioto Friday night while Teays Valley will host Olentangy in its home finale and Logan Elm will entertain Piketon in the last home tilt for the Braves.

"We have to consider the East Clinton game just about our finest effort," Westfall Coach Bill Vance stated. "Our kids went all out and didn't let down."

"In the winning touchdown drive we ran 13 plays in four minutes and didn't make a mistake," Vance continued. "Dave Shannon did an excellent job of directing the drive and our boys were poised and cool under pressure."

"You just can't say enough about Steve Nevil," Vance said. "He gives you 100 per cent all the time and is a fine team player. He carried 17 times for 90 yards and also led the team in tackles."

back into the football picture after a year's layoff. They are without a win this season and sport an 0-7 record.

On offense Olentangy will move from a straight T and the defensive unit employs an Oklahoma defense.

THE Vikings injury list has healed and they will be a healthy squad for Friday's encounter with Olentangy.

Teays Valley's power offense will be fired by Champ Henson and Bob Tucker, a pair of fine hard hitting backs. Henson is averaging 162 yards a game and 6.3 yards per carry while Tucker has an 89-yard game average and is averaging 8.0 yards per carry.

Offensively the Vikings will have Jeff Helser and Steve Hines at the ends with Jack Brinker and John Glick at the tackles.

Chuck Frazier and Ron Archer will be the guards with Dean Bastian in the center of the line.

Stan Clay will call the signals. Ron Crosby will be at fullback, Bob Tucker the halfback and Champ Henson will be the tailback.

On defense, Scott Barr and Henson will be the ends, Bob Archer and Brinker the tackles and Terry McDaniel the middle guard.

CROSBY and Tucker will operate from the linebackers spots. Jeff Ehman and Hines will be the halfbacks, Ray Good will be the safety and Helser the rover back.

Teays Valley is now 5-2 for the season and will conclude its season Nov. 6 when they travel to Washington C. H. to meet the Blue Lions.

The Olentangy game will also be parents night and the Vikings will honor the parents of the players and cheerleaders.

It will be parents night at Logan Elm Friday with the introduction of the parents, players and cheerleaders scheduled before the game.

Piketon operates from a prototype offense according to scouting reports and uses a number of defensive alignments, including a 3-4 in addition to the standard defenses.

Piketon has a 3-4 record and although the Redstreaks have been able to score a lot of points (164) they have also allowed a lot of points (171).

THE offense machine is engineered by Allen Crace, All-Scioto Valley Conference quarterback last year. Crace is the man the Braves will have to stop.

He is a top passer and an outstanding runner. In addition he runs back punts and kicks and plays middle linebacker on defense.

The Redstreaks and Braves have played two common opponents this fall. Piketon beat Westfall 50-16 while Logan Elm won 14-8 over the Mustangs. The Redstreaks lost to Pafnt Valley 30-12, a team that downed LE 33-6.

Logan Elm will use a 5-3 defense in an effort to contain Crace and company. Mike Hupp will be the middle guard, Dale Valentine and John Stant the tackles, Steve Curtis and Jim Fox the ends. John Mead will be middle linebacker and Tim Speakman and Steve Pusey the outside linebackers.

John Weaver and Wertie Teets will be the halfbacks and Dean Godden the safety.

The Braves received a blow during last Friday's game when Keith Lands sustained a shoulder separation and will be lost for the rest of the season.

INJURIES to key personnel have hampered the Braves this season. First Brad Barr, veteran defensive end, was lost for the season when he suffered a compound fracture of the forearm. A kidney bruise forced Wertie Teets to miss the Paint Valley contest while quarterback Punk Jones missed the Paint Valley contest and was in the St. Charles battle for only two plays because of a shoulder separation.

Except for Lands and Barr, however, the Braves are expected to be at nearly full strength for Friday's contest. It will be the last home game for Logan Elm.

The Scioto Valley Conference lead is currently shared by Paint Valley, defending champion, and Adena, both with 3-0 SVC records. Unioto, Piketon and Logan Elm are all tied for third with 1-2 records while Westfall is sixth in the league with an 0-3 mark.

RON Greenwood injured his back and is lost for the season but the rest of the squad is healthy and should be ready for Unioto.

Unioto uses a stacked 4-4 defense that is tough to move against. They were able to contain Paint Valley's potent offense and have shown well in other frays.

The chief offensive threat of Unioto is its fine tailback, Jim Sprouse, who likes to sweep and hit off tackle. The Mustangs will have to keep him in check if they are going to win the ball game.

On offense the Mustangs will go with Randy Long at center and Artie Dick and Larry Adams at the guards.

The tackles will be Joe Jude and John Greene with Rich Riddle and Tom Musselman at the ends.

Dave Shannon will be calling the signals, Steve Nevil will be at fullback, Dave Eitel the halfback and Randy Metzger the flanker.

COACH Vance will continue to vary the defense and employ as many players as possible.

The Mustangs are now 2-5 for the season and will play their final game on Nov. 6 when they will host Paint Valley.

"We had a fine offensive game against Dublin," Teays Valley Coach Dick Kidwell remarked, "due to some excellent line blocking and hard running on the part of our backs. This enabled us to garner over 400 yards in the game."

"Our pass defense let us down but we have been working all week to improve it," Kidwell continued.

Olentangy brings a team to Teays Valley that is just getting

NCAA Council Eyes Easing Of Eligibility

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Council of the NCAA voted Tuesday to sponsor legislation at the group's convention in January to waive eligibility rules in extreme hardship cases.

The decision stemmed from the airplane crash which killed several members of the Wichita State football team earlier this year.

The 18-member council said it could not change the rules without an amendment approved by the full membership of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, although it was sympathetic to the Wichita State case.

The legislation to be proposed would stipulate that large numbers of a team would have to be disabled before the eligibility waiver would occur.

In the Wichita State case, rules allow a freshman to participate in varsity football, but NCAA regulations would block these freshmen from participating in any post-season activity in their senior year.

In other action, the council informally approved a report from a financial aid committee to limit the number of scholarships each school can give and to require that scholarships be awarded only on a financial need formula.

The other part of the three-part program suggested by the committee would establish one date on which all member schools could issue scholarship invitations and establish a one week "quiet period" immediately after the scholarships are offered. During this period no coach could contact a high school prospect.

The idea is to allow the athlete to decide which school he wants to attend without outside pressure. Once the decision is made it can't be changed without forfeiture of a certain period of eligibility.

The net effect of the three-part proposal would be to drastically cut athletic costs and equalize competition.

The Golden Bears, ranked second behind Massillon in The Associated Press Class AAA state poll this week, have gone unbeaten the last three seasons to grab the mythical Ohio crown for big schools.

Massillon established the Ohio record of 38 straight victories for big schools from the eighth game in 1937 through the fifth game of 1941.

Mansfield Senior stopped the Tigers' all-winning spell with a 6-6 tie in the sixth game of the 1941 campaign.

Around the state: Cleveland Holy Name and Cleveland St. Ignatius meet for the 50th time Friday night. The two played the first night high school football game in Ohio in 1921. St. Ignatius won that one 38-7 and holds a 27-19 series edge.

Billy Casper Named Top PGA Player

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper, winner of this year's Masters golf tournament, added another chunk of gold to his trophy collection Tuesday night when he was named the PGA's Player of the Year.

The presentation was made to the 39-year-old Californian during the annual president's dinner at the Palm Beach Towers, honoring Leo Fraser, retiring president of the Professional Golfers' Association.

Casper, named Player of the Year in 1966, was selected this year in close competition with the 1967 winner—Jack Nicklaus.

In accepting the award, Casper said "I'd have to say that from week to week Jack is the best player on the tour today."

The winner of 47 other major PGA tournaments including the 1966 National Open, Casper said he hoped to compete in the National PGA Championships to be held Feb. 25-28 at the PGA National Golf Club at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

Casper has had to avoid the Florida segment of the pro tour because of an allergy to insecticides used on local grasses but said he'd "try to play in at least one Florida tournament in 1972."

Jake Yoder, Fort Wayne, Ind., bowled the 22nd perfect game in ABC tournament history in 1970.

Tarkenton Named Tops On Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — A few weeks ago, New Yorkers were calling for Fran Tarkenton's head on a chopping block. Now they're tipping their hats to the Giants' quarterback following his finest hour in a decade of National Football League play.

Tarkenton, a convenient scapegoat when the Giants blew first-half leads in three consecutive losses at the outset of the season, silenced his critics last Sunday with a flurry of five touchdown passes that toppled St. Louis 35-17 and evened New York's record at 3-3.

The 30-year-old signal-caller was selected today by The Associated Press as the NFL's Offensive Player of the Week.

OSU Faces Northwestern Saturday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's second-ranked football team will be in its best physical shape of the season when Northwestern invades Ohio Stadium Saturday for a battle of the Big Ten co-leaders.

Running backs Larry Zelma and Leo Hayden, All-American cornerback Jack Tatum and offensive guard Brian Donovan, who have been ailing, all are ready for the game that likely will decide the Big Ten's Rose Bowl delegate.

OSU, Northwestern and Michigan share the conference lead with 3-0 marks, but the Wolverines, who played in the Rose Bowl last New Year's Day, are ineligible to return to Pasadena for the post-season classic.

Ohio State dropped to second place in the Associated Press college football poll Tuesday. Texas took over the No. 1 spot with 670 points to 664 for Ohio State.

Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes refused to comment on the poll as he arranged Tuesday to get some films of Northwestern in action.

"I've got more important things to do," Hayes said as he disappeared into the coaches' meeting room at the Ohio State practice facility.

Bengals Acquire Gary McArthur

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League Tuesday signed 6-foot-five Gary McArthur, a 248-pound offensive lineman picked up on waivers from the Green Bay Packers.

McArthur, who played his college career at Southern California, was the fifth round draft choice of the San Francisco 49ers who let him go to Green Bay.

Hot College Grid Action On Tap

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Something's gotta give this weekend in the Big Ten and Ivy League football races.

Ohio State and Michigan are unbeaten and supposedly heading toward a showdown battle in Columbus on Nov. 21. But a glance at the Big Ten standings show that the second-ranked Buckeyes and fifth-ranked Wolverines have company in the Wilecats of Northwestern.

Northwestern hasn't had a winning season since 1963. But the Wildcats have won three straight league games after dropping their three nonconference tilts and are ranked 20th this week in The Associated Press poll.

Northwestern visits Ohio State on Saturday while Michigan plays at Wisconsin.

Barring a tie between Dartmouth and Yale, the Ivy League will have only one leader Saturday after those two unbeaten clash in the Yale Bowl before a crowd expected to approach 60,000.

Northwestern at Ohio State — "If you think you're going to get a quote on that, you're not," Woody Hayes told a newsman Tuesday after the Buckeyes, though still unbeaten, dropped from first to second in the AP poll this week. "I've got more important things to do."

That means plotting to get the Bucks back on top, which a top-sided victory might accomplish. Hello Columbus; goodbye Northwestern, Ohio State.

Michigan at Wisconsin — It's a good thing the Badgers beat Indiana last weekend because all they've got coming up is Michigan, followed by Ohio State, Michigan.

Dartmouth at Yale — Both teams have swift-striking attacks and both rank among the national leaders in most defensive categories. Yale won the series opener 113-0 back in 1984 but times have changed. Dartmouth.

Southern Methodist at Texas — Longhorns are on top in the rankings and mean to stay there. Texas.

Nebraska at Colorado — Cornhuskers are roaring toward the Big Eight title, Nebraska.

Wake Forest at Tennessee — Vols burst Deacons' bubble at four straight Tennessee.

Auburn at Florida — Gators are unbeaten at home ... until now, Auburn.

Pitt at Syracuse — After seven, at lean years, Pitt is riding high. Panthers are ranked 15th and they're tops in the East. Having digested all that ... Syracuse.

Oregon at Washington — Ducks are still alive in the Rose Bowl race, Oregon.

West Virginia at Penn State — In preseason forecasts, this game was expected to decide the Eastern championship. Penn State has had the Indian sign on the Mountaineers since 1955. A new decade shouldn't prove any different, Penn State.

Upper Arlington May Equal Massillon's Top Win Mark

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Upper Arlington, if it wins at Chillicothe Friday night, can equal Massillon's all-time winning streak of 38 games for a major Ohio high school football team.

Find Huks

Helped Hire Base Guards

MANILA (AP) — A private Filipino agency guarding several U.S. facilities here is under "close scrutiny" due to intelligence reports that most of its guards were hired upon approval of Huk rebels, a national police spokesman said Tuesday.

The owner of the G. J. Perez Security Agency, Gerardo Perez, has been under arrest since last week following the shooting deaths of two Philippine policemen and a U.S. Navy man at the U.S. Navy transmitter in Tarlac Province, north of Manila. Their killer was shot to death by return fire.

A spokesman at the U.S. Clark Air Base said the U.S. military had contracted with Perez to help guard inside the base and several other facilities, including a voice of America transmitter, near the Navy installation.

He said American officials had heard of Perez' arrest but had taken no action on the security contract. He said they had "no way of verifying" reports that the guards were handpicked by a pro-Communist Huk commander.

Maj. Carlos Dato, the spokesman for national police headquarters at Camp Olivas in Pampanga Province, near Clark, said Perez denied he was involved with the killings or the Huks.

Dato said Perez had been charged with "coercion."

Tax Is Fought; Gigantic Shovel Doesn't Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Owners of the Big Muskie drag line, largest shovel in the world, say they shouldn't have to pay $497,149 in 1970 personal property taxes because the machine hasn't been in use.

Commonwealth Plan, Inc., of Boston, filed a formal application with the Ohio Department of Taxation for review of its 1970 assessment.

The company said the shovel has not been in operation during the taxing period and has proved to be not capable of mining coal.

The shovel, located in a strip mining area of Muskingum County east of Chandlersville, was built by Commonwealth for the Central Ohio Coal Co.

Muskingum County Treasurer Wilber Wheeler said Commonwealth has made a partial tax payment of $23,206 on a total tax bill of $497,149.

Government officials have argued that many youths still listing themselves as looking for work during the Labor Day week quit job hunting and returned to school within a few days, artificially swelling the September unemployment total.

Meany used his favorite epithet of "bunk" to describe administration claims of economic improvement.

"This is complete deception. It is plain, ordinary calculated deception. There has not been an improvement and there is no indication that there is going to be an improvement," said the 76-year-old leader of 13.6 million union members in an interview.
